Work Projects Thrown Open

Municipal Schemes Not Restricted Now to Relief Cases

Regulations for government-assisted municipal improvements work scheme were widened today so that men in necessitous circumstances, who are not drawing regular relief, may get work on the projects.

Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, announced the change in policy as the result of agitation from municipal sources, mainly Vancouver, and from Ottawa.

The original plan was that only relief men could get jobs on the works, except for certain supervisory personnel and key men.

The argument was advanced, however, that this penalized men who were struggling to keep off relief. It would encourage them to stop struggling and get on the relief rolls so they could get jobs on the municipal works.

A special committee will be set up to determine which men shall be eligible for the so-called "borderline" jobs, Mr. Pearson said. It will consist of the local relief officer, the provincial relief officer in the district concerned, and A. E. Munn, Dominion representative.

Mr. Pearson said the government had consented to widen the regulation with some misgivings.

He explained that one of the main purposes of the works program was to give relief men temporary jobs and assist them in getting off relief altogether. The projects are all work that otherwise would not be done this year, and by taking men from outside the relief rolls, part of the objective will be defeated.

It will mean added cost to both the governments and municipalities, because the employment of relief men saves the governments the amount of their allowances. But employment of others means an entirely new cost.

Fred Snite, in Iron Lung, Weds Chicago Girl

CHICAGO (AP)—Courageous young Fred Snite Jr., who has been fighting for life in an iron lung for three years, was married today.

The smiling 29-year-old infantile paralysis victim who has refused to let the handicap of an artificial respirator interfere with his many activities, took Miss Teressa Larkin, 25, of Dayton, O., for his bride.

The ceremony which united the widely-known "Boiler Kid" with the Ohio girl was performed in the Snite suburban home in River Forest by Rev. J. W. Morrison.

Young Snite was in his iron lung while the service was read.

Announcement of the marriage was made by Snite's father, Fred Sr., who said the young couple planned to take a short trailer trip. Snite has a trailer specially equipped to carry the apparatus necessary to his life.

Attendants for the couple were Terrence J. Dillon and his wife, Mary Loretta, who is young Snite's sister. Mary Loretta and Miss Larkin were friends at college and the new Mrs. Snite had been a frequent guest at the Snite home.

Earlier Martin Hogan, an attendant of the Cook County clerk's office, had been dispatched to the Snite residence in suburban River Forest to obtain the information for the wedding license. He said Snite and his bride-to-be were smilingly answering the questions in the garden.

"That boy! What courage he has," Hogan said. "He was smiling all the time and was as happy as any other young man about to be married."

Young Snite, a cheerful curly-haired graduate of Notre Dame University, has attracted worldwide attention since he was stricken. He was placed in a respirator in Peiping on April 1, 1936. A staff of doctors and nurses were engaged. A grim struggle to stave off death began.

Since then his father, Fred Snite Sr., head of a loan bank system here, has spent a fortune in an effort to restore his son to normal health.

A specially-constructed trailer was purchased at a cost of $15,000 to facilitate young Snite's travels. In it he was taken to the "Shrine of Miracles" in Lourdes, France, last May.

His father explained the pilgrimage was a "thanks offering" for his son's prolonged life as much as a "prayer for another miracle."

The indomitable "Boiler Kid" was immersed in the waters of the grotto and offered up his prayers.

Throughout his ordeal, young Snite has remained cheerful and interested in current events.

In recent months he has been able to leave his respirator, a huge, round, boiler-like device, four hours at a time. During these interludes, while he sat in the sun or read, he donned a lightweight aluminum and rubber lung which fits over his chest.

'Talent Scout' Admits Slaying

One Movie-struck Girl Dead, Second Hysterical After Abduction

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP)—A man booked as Charles Jefferson confessed to police today he had abducted two Miami high school girls with the intention of holding them for ransom, killed one and held the other captive until early this morning.

Miami detectives announced the confession at the Boca Raton police station, where Jefferson was held after his arrest near the scene of the slaying of 17-year-old Ruth Dunn.

Discovery of the body in a coastal swamp and the arrest of the self-styled "talent scout" who had promised her a theatrical career climaxed a four-day hunt for the two girls.

Hoping for movie fame, Miss Dunn and a high school chum, blonde Jean Bolton, 19, left Miami Monday with Jefferson, 34-year-old six-footer, who claimed a wide background in film, radio and stage work.

Nude and stabbed twice, Miss Dunn was found dead on a lonely beach road two miles north of Boca Raton a few hours after Miss Bolton, hysterical and with bruised lips, walked into the fire department station here and announced she had been held a prisoner throughout the period.

Jefferson was arrested as he walked, unarmed, along a highway. Detective Lieut. E. W. Melchen of Miami announced the prisoner confessed he abducted the girls with the idea of holding them for ransom, criminally assaulted Miss Dunn Monday night and killed her to silence her outcries.

"He said he killed Miss Dunn because she cried for help and became hysterical despite his warning that they were to remain quiet," the lieutenant related.

The girl's body was covered only by a raincoat. Her throat was cut.

Mussolini Closes United Press Bureau

ROME (AP)—The Italian government today closed the office of the United Press in Rome and ordered its chief of bureau, H. R. Ekins, to leave Italy within 24 hours.

This action, which was believed to have been ordered by Premier Mussolini himself, was also believed to be the most drastic ever taken against a foreign correspondent in Rome.

An official said it was caused by publication of a dispatch distributed outside Italy by the United Press saying Mussolini was seriously ill.

An official said the dispatch was "absolutely untrue."

To demonstrate he is in good health, Mussolini appeared last night at an open air opera performance in Rome.

Ekins said the Rome bureau of the United Press had nothing to do with the dispatch in question, which bore a London dateline and told of reports circulating in England.

Forster Declares Hitler Will Aid If Danzig Fights

Crowd Shouts for 'One Fuehrer' as Nazi Scores Poland

Says Poles Threaten

DANZIG (AP)—Nazi leader Albert Forster told a cheering throng in the Langer Market place tonight that "Poland may rest assured" Germany and the German Chancellor "are determined in the event of attack to stand at our side."

Speaking with the full authority of his conference earlier this week with the German Fuehrer, Forster declared: "In a serious moment we have assembled in this historic market place in order to protest against the threats of war uttered by Polish papers and speakers."

His declaration-Germany stood solidly behind the Free City in the Nazi campaign for re-union with Germany was interrupted by cries of: "One people! One Reich! One Fuehrer!" "We want to return to the Reich!"

"The Danzig population has shown that it loves peace," he said. "If the Polish threats had not been so serious we should have been content to pass over them."

Forster got no farther when cries of "Fuehrer!" reverberated throughout the square, but continuing, he said:

"Anybody who expected sensational announcements tonight was mistaken."

PLAIN SPEAKING

"Since these threats continued, however, and are even supported by official utterances, the time has come for us to bring our viewpoint to the attention of the world in no uncertain terms."

"It appears as though over in Poland there is no inclination to return to common sense."

"It may be said that those who must bear the responsibility are those who for months have been inciting to violence."

The Danzig Nazi leader then cited numerous utterances of the Polish press seeking to prove the Poles wish to establish a protectorate over Danzig.

More "Pfu!" — the German equivalent of the Bronx cheer—greeted this passage.

Forster described Polish mass meetings in which placards were exhibited with the inscriptions, "Onward across the Oder river!"

As he spoke the crowd kept shouting, "We want to return to the Reich!"

He quoted a telegram attributed to the head of Polish youth organizations which said, "We believe a new war will bring another Tannenberg"—referring to a battle in 1410 in which the Poles were victorious.

WEATHER AIDS FIREFIGHTERS

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Weather came to the aid of fire-seared Oregon today, but in Washington's Columbia National forest the absence of reports from isolated patrol lines provoked alarm a new break had occurred in 4,000 acres of burning timber.

The Forest Grove headquarters of the district fire patrol association said weather conditions at the 22-mile-long Saddle Mountain blaze in three Oregon counties were "the most favorable in a week."

The fire, northwestern Oregon's most serious since the 1933 Tillamook conflagration, was still spreading southward along the evergreen Coast Range, but a lull in a northeast wind and fog from the Pacific Ocean permitted the patrol to "get in a lot of trails."

PUBLIC WORKS URGED BY QUEBEC

OTTAWA (CP)—An appeal from Premier Duplessis of Quebec that the province and Dominion share on a 50-50 basis the cost of public works as a relief measure, and a plea from Mayor Houde of Montreal for direct relief assistance in that city, were taken under consideration today by Prime Minister King and his colleagues.

In an atmosphere of harmony the Quebec cabinet, backed by some 40 mayors and municipal officers from Quebec towns and cities, faced the Dominion cabinet.

Mr. King and Labor Minister Rogers spoke for the government.

Oldsters On An Outing

Yesterday was a red-letter day for a score of oldsters, in age from 75 to 90. Alderman W. H. Davies took them out to Mount Douglas Park for the Aged Men's Home's yearly picnic.

In the park they fraternized with youngsters under the trees; played shuffleboard; competed at driving nails into logs; ate hot dogs; drank beer, or just gazed out to sea.

Some joined in and sang with the black-face minstrels.

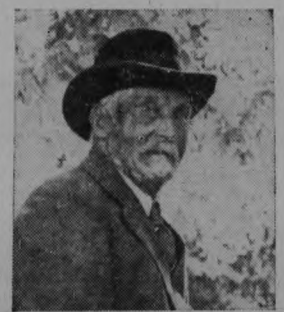

Some puffed their pipes meditatively as they listened.

Others, with the dignity of years on their faces, watched.

"It's a beautiful spot," said one to his companions.

Lord Baden-Powell's old batman reminisced of South Africa.

Others, with eyes turned inward, dreamed of other days.

Young Man Held As Suspect in Firebug Inquiry

21-year-old Charged Under Mental Hospitals Act With Insanity

Trailed for Days

A 21-year-old Victoria man was arrested by city police this morning and held on a charge under the Mental Hospitals Act as the result of the investigation of incendiary fires in the Greater Victoria area since July 1.

By virtue of a warrant issued by Magistrate Hall this morning the young man was taken into custody by Detective Henry F. Jarvis and booked at headquarters on a charge of being insane and dangerous to be at large.

The arrest culminated six weeks of intensive secret police investigation under the direction of Police Chief J. A. McLellan and Inspector J. H. Rogers, head of the plain clothes department, details of which have not been disclosed until now.

Police said they had received the assistance of special fire investigators from out of town and four local investigators specially engaged in shadowing suspects.

TRAILED DAY AND NIGHT

These men had trailed suspicious persons day and night reporting their every movement and while handling their assignment they were taken all over the Greater Victoria area and into unorganized districts.

The entire inquiry was one of the most exhaustive of its kind ever conducted by the local department and was one in which the fire department collaborated closely.

For the first time, too, police said the activities of the firebug had at one time threatened loss of life and serious property damage in the city, in addition to other property loss which was blamed on incendiary fires.

They disclosed evidence had been discovered of an attempt to destroy a building in the downtown section, which, had it been successful, would have meant loss of scores of lives and probably resulted in a conflagration. Location of the building was kept secret, presumably in the interests of the owners.

The laying of the charge under the Mental Hospitals Act followed consultation between investigators and legal advisors. Police had prepared a complete brief for submission to legal authorities and after consideration of this document the charge was laid.

The information was sworn by Fire Chief Alex Munroe this morning before 10 and within an hour the man was in custody. He was brought into the detective office at 11.05 and shortly after was booked in custody in the charge office. He immediately summoned counsel to his aid.

The procedure required under the Mental Hospitals Act will take the case before the police magistrate for hearing, when testimony of the various witnesses concerned will be heard. Decision on the man's sanity will then rest with the authorities who will decide whether or not there must be a commitment.

NOT VISIBLY WORRIED

Attired in striped white flannel pants, with open shirt, the young man appeared calm when booked at headquarters. He is dark, clean shaven and of good appearance.

Since the outbreak of incendiary in the city about July 1, there have been 150 calls reported to fire department headquarters, many of which authorities believed of incendiary origin.

Most of these were grass fires but on two occasions Fire Chief Munroe blamed the firebug for real property damage in which loss involved amounted to several thousand dollars.

RAIDERS SLIP BY IN BRITISH TEST

Cross Coast Defences
In Foggy Weather,
But Spotted Island

LONDON (CP) — Foggy weather today permitted bombers from "Eastland" to slip past Great Britain's channel coast defences as aerial manoeuvres continued.

Once over the interior, however, they encountered a vigorous defence from "Westland" forces, which put hundreds of combat planes into action to supplement balloon barrages.

A number of the attacking craft were technically forced down and others were driven back over the Channel.

Thirteen hundred planes are taking part in the exercises, 500 attacking and the rest being assigned to defence. The games will continue until 5 p.m. tomorrow.

U.S. Speeds Plane Contracts For $100,000,000

Largest Peace-time
Orders Include Fast
Boeing Bombers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States War Department threw the expansion of its army air forces into high gear today with an award of contracts totaling $85,978,000 for aircraft and engines.

Louis Johnson, acting secretary of war, said they represented the largest peacetime arms orders.

Including equipment, which will be provided by the government, for which separate contracts are to be let, more than $100,000,000 was represented, the War Department said.

The largest single contract went to the Glenn L. Martin Company, Baltimore, for two-engine bombers, costing $15,815,000.

For an undisclosed number of the same type plane, an $11,771,000 contract was awarded North American Aviation Inc., Inglewood, Calif.

Altogether, the contracts represent purchases of more than 1,000 planes of all types, military circles understand, although numbers have not been disclosed, in conformity with a new policy of secrecy.

SPEDDY BOMBERS

The War Department indicated new four-motor bombers—$17,394,000 worth ordered in separate groups from the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation at San Diego, Calif., and the Boeing Aircraft Company at Seattle—would be able at least to approach 300 miles an hour. The Boeing order totals $8,090,000.

The planes ordered from the Boeing Company are an improved version of the "Flying Fortress" which averaged 263.8 miles an hour in a transcontinental flight last week.

Fastest of the new planes are $4,845,000 worth of new type interceptors ordered from the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation at Burbank, Calif.

These twin-engine craft are designed to climb quickly to head off any wartime raids and are said to be similar to the experimental ships which last February attained a top speed of 420 miles an hour in a transcontinental flight which ended in a crack-up at Mitchell Field, N.Y.

NO REDUCED CHARGE ON TAR, FEATHERS

CALGARY (CP) — Magistrate D. Cameron Sinclair today refused to reduce the charge against Mrs. Ethel Allan and her daughter, Miss Betty Allen, from one of occasional actual bodily harm to Nurse Alice Knowles to a charge of common assault or any other lesser count.

After hearing argument from Defence Counsel J. McKinley Cameron, K.C., for an hour, Magistrate Sinclair said: "I feel that the evidence for the prosecution constitutes a prima facie case against the two defendants."

Mr. Cameron then asked for a remand until next Wednesday, August 16. The adjournment was granted.

The two women are charged in connection with a recent attack on Miss Knowles, a Calgary nurse, in her room during which paint was poured over her and a pillow of feathers dumped on the liquid as it ran over her.

After pointing out to the court that his defence would embrace such matters as provocation, intent, the accused's state of mind and temperament, Mr. Cameron asked if the court wished to hear arguments for reduction of the charge.

"I have come pretty well to that conclusion," said Magistrate Sinclair.

DOCTOR'S EVIDENCE

Mr. Cameron then dealt at length with definitions of "actual bodily harm" and quoted passages from evidence of Dr. I. H. Brodie regarding the nurse's condition when he attended her.

He pointed out that this evidence indicated the nurse had sustained no burns, skin eruptions or serious discomfort to her eyes and that there was no evidence of deadly or noxious elements in the liquid poured over Miss Knowles.

"I think it is a matter where there must be some substantial injury—otherwise it is a common assault," continued Mr. Cameron. "I submit that Dr. Brodie's evidence does away with any bodily harm."

There was no more evidence of injury done to Miss Knowles than if the accused had poured a bucket of water over her instead of roofing paint, Mr. Cameron told the court. He said it was not a matter for the court to consider what might have happened, but only what did happen.

Jugoslavia Rejects Demands No Use of Her Territory By Germany And Italy If War Comes

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)

—German and Italian demands for use of Yugoslav territory in wartime were reported authoritatively today to have been refused by Yugoslavia, and orders were issued to speed up fortifications on the German frontier.

Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic took off shortly before noon in an army bomber for Fiume, Italy. From there he planned to go to Trieste for discussions in which it was said he would declare rejection of the reported demands.

It was said he would meet emissaries of the Italian foreign minister, Count Ciano, in Trieste and might return to Yugoslavia before proceeding to Venice and Rome.

Italy's official Stefani news agency said Cvetkovic would inspect Fascist recreation, social and welfare organizations.

The premier's use of the bomber was seen as a symbol of the will of this strategic Balkan country to keep an armed and strict neutrality.

Great Britain and France were said by authoritative sources to have told Regent Prince Paul on his recent trip to London and Paris that they would back Yugoslavia in case she came into conflict with Germany and Italy. Her surrender in any such conflict would mean a severe blow to Roumania, Greece and Turkey, which have guarantees of independence from the Anglo-French front.

WANTED RAILWAYS

The Yugoslav government was said to have decided that the slightest compliance with the Italian and German proposals would be incompatible with the nation's sovereignty.

The demands, said to have been submitted "unofficially" and to have been described by the axis powers as calling for a form of "benevolent neutrality" on the part of Yugoslavia, were reported to have included:

1. Wartime control of Yugoslav railroads;
2. Placing of Yugoslav economic and military centres under supervision of Germany and Italy;
3. Placing all of Yugoslavia's war materials and foodstuffs at German-Italian disposal;
4. Granting Germany and Italy the right to cross Yugoslav territory to Roumania or Bulgaria.

Control of the railroads would give Italy and Germany direct rail connections across the Yugoslav province of Slovenia, supplementing the route through the Brenner Pass.

Quarters close to the government expressed a belief that the axis powers may have been prompted by a desire to strengthen Italy's military position for any operation from Italian Albania against Greece.

These quarters believed German agitation against Poland over Danzig was a "blind" to mask preparations in southern Europe.

ROME (AP) — Official Italian circles refrained today from comment on a Belgrade report Italy and Germany had demanded of Yugoslavia the right to move troops across her territory in wartime.

Diplomats familiar with Yugoslav policy said, however, they were convinced the Belgrade government would refuse such permission and, if necessary, would resist with arms.

On the other hand, they said Yugoslavia, eager to maintain genuine neutrality, would be willing to sell raw materials and food to Italy and Germany during wartime.

Italy Controls People's Moves

ROME (AP) — The government today enforced a stringent measure to compel rural Italians to remain in rural areas.

A law published in the official gazette yesterday provides for fines up to 1,000 lire ($50) for anyone moving into a town of 25,000 population or more, unless he already has work there or other means of support.

The measure is understood to be designed chiefly to prevent increased unemployment in cities.

Duce Advises Hitler No War for Danzig

ROME (AP) — Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano left Rome tonight for Salzburg to confer with German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Informed diplomats expressed belief the Italian minister would advise against any action concerning Danzig that might lead to war.

It was announced officially the conference, to open tomorrow afternoon in Fusch Castle, would be devoted to questions of joint Italian-German concern.

These were understood to include possible steps toward satisfaction of Germany's demands for the return of Danzig to Germany.

Premier Mussolini has expressed Italy's desire to avoid war and has declared Germany's dispute with Poland over Danzig could be settled peacefully.

Must Destroy Hitlerism, Says Warsaw Paper

WARSAW (AP) — Kurjer Polski, Warsaw newspaper of big industry, apparently freed from official restraint today editorially compared Germany with ancient Carthage as a "nest of contagion" which must be "destroyed."

"Twenty years ago one hesitated to march on Berlin," said the editorial in language of unprecedented violence. "One did not want to beat a man who was down. . . . This mistake will not be committed a second time. . . . Carthage must be destroyed."

Demonstration in Tokio

200 Chinese Send Petition to British Embassy
While Talks With Japanese Stalemated

TOKIO (CP) — Some 200 Chinese demonstrated today before the British embassy.

The Chinese demonstrations, more orderly than demonstrations by Japanese which preceded it during the past month, ended when a delegation delivered a petition to the embassy. Contents of the document, written in Chinese, were not known at once.

France and the United States meanwhile were reported to have declared to Japan their interest in economic problems arising out of the war in China, adding a new complication to the already stalemated Anglo-Japanese conference.

Observers said the question of including other powers in consideration of issues between Great Britain and Japan had become a new barrier to resumption of the conversations.

Sir Robert Craigie, the British ambassador, has insisted that Britain could not withdraw support from the central Chinese government's currency because other powers were concerned.

Japan desires speedy resumption of the negotiations.

The British ambassador is waiting instructions from London and has declared it inconsistent for the Japanese government to expect Britain to make vital decision in a short time.

"Our attitude is sufficiently clear, one Japanese official said. 'We cannot await indefinitely.'"

A Japanese foreign office spokesman declared "Japan will not yield her position that economic questions are solely between Britain and Japan. We cannot support any opinion that third powers are involved."

The United States and French representations were made by Eugene Doolan, United States charge d'affaires, and Baron Guy Fain, French charge d'affaires.

U.S. Citizens Stated Detained in China

CHUNGKING (AP) — A cryptic message received here Thursday said United States citizens at Japanese-occupied Kaifeng had been detained by authorities, for undisclosed reasons, giving new concern for their safety amid anti-American demonstrations there.

The message was relayed to the Peiping office of the United States embassy. As Kaifeng, in Honan province, is behind Japanese lines, the only contact with the 30 American missionaries there is by an occasional native courier slipping through a no-man's-land to Chengchow, 45 miles to the west.

Shanghai dispatches Tuesday said a courier had set out in an effort to reach Kaifeng. Last Saturday it was reported the missionaries were preparing to flee because of anti-American demonstrations.

British Voice Regret For Clash at Swatow

HONGKONG (AP) — Naval authorities announced Thursday that the British consul at Swatow and the commander of a British destroyer had expressed formal regret for disorder Monday in which a Chinese was injured.

The Chinese was one of a crowd engaged in an anti-British demonstration before the consulate at Swatow and Japanese charged the man was injured in a clash with British sailors.

The newspaper's Danzig correspondent talked with Forster after his return from a conference at Berchtesgaden with Chancellor Hitler.

Forster said that "our reunion with the Reich must take place, and with the shortest possible delay."

Asked when he expected this, Forster replied: "Soon, very soon. Poland has tried to make out that it can't live without Danzig. What a lie!"

"A single fact exists—Danzig, a Germany property, must return to the mother country."

FERRY STRIKE END HOPED FOR

Washington Governor
Has 'Neutral Proposal'
To Settle Deadlock

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Ferry users were hopeful today that the end of the Puget Sound ferry strike was in sight as a result of a round of conferences here during the last few days.

They pinned their hopes on a "neutral proposal" Governor Clarence D. Martin said he would make to the Puget Sound Steam Navigation Company and the Inland Boatmen's Union this afternoon, providing both factions agree the ferry service will be restored not later than Friday.

Mr. Martin last night met W. T. Geurts, United States federal mediator, and members of the ferry users' committee, and another meeting was scheduled today.

The union and the company, described by Governor Martin as "far apart on two or three basic points" in his announcement late yesterday, again awaited a summons to confer with him.

Polish Envoy Sees Oct. 1 as Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP)—Count Jerzy Potocki, Polish ambassador to the United States, believes it would require a "miracle" to find a solution for the European crisis resulting from the Danzig issue.

He reported to Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, yesterday, shortly after his return from Poland.

"If we can get by until October 1, there will not be war before next spring," he told reporters. But he would not name any odds on Europe's ability to "get by" until October 1.

He said he did not think the tension abroad "can go on indefinitely without war."

New Federation Proposal for India

Premier of Punjab Suggests Alternative to Great Britain's Scheme

SIMLA, India (CP-Reuters) — Dominion status for India within 20 years is the objective of an alternative scheme of Indian federation drawn up by Sir Sikander Hyat Khan, premier of the Punjab.

The British government's federation scheme is now under consideration by the Indian princes, a number of whom are suspicious of it.

The Junjab premier's plan is described as an attempt to solve Indian political and communal problems by meeting as far as possible various criticisms of the federation scheme as embodied in the Government of India Act. It groups the provinces and states into seven zones, each consisting of one or more provinces and contiguous states.

Each zone will have a regional legislature consisting of representatives of its provinces and states.

Representatives of all the regional legislatures would collectively constitute a unicameral federal legislature having the same number of members and the same proportional representation as under the existing act.

Unlike the India Office scheme, Sir Sikander's plan provides for direct association of Indians with defence policy and foreign relations from the outset.

It is claimed the scheme meets the objections of the princes to federation and that it does not involve the relinquishment of the federal part of the Government of India Act, since the proposal could be dovetailed into it practically without alteration.

act if he ever intends to do so," he said, "because by next spring the coalition against him will be so strong that the initiative will be taken away from him and he will be held by Great Britain."

He thought it possible the Danzig Senate might one day decree Danzig to be German, but said that would be a signal for Poland to act, and he was confident Britain and France would immediately join her.

ALBERTA CAN HAVE HIGHWAY LINKS

Province Would Not Be Isolated From Alaska Road, Says Stewart

OTTAWA (CP)—There is "not the slightest reason to suppose the interests of the people of Alberta would be neglected" in selecting a route for an international highway to Alaska, Hon. Charles Stewart, chairman of the British Columbia-Yukon-Alaska Highway commission, said in a statement issued today.

The statement was intended to clarify the scope of the Canadian commission's investigation, in view of public statements and newspaper comment regarding Alberta's interest in the proposed highway and the practicability of an alternative route through that province.

Mr. Stewart emphasized the commission is authorized explicitly to inquire into practicability of a highway to connect the United States with Alaska through British Columbia and the Yukon. It is to report on all the facts as to alternative routes. Decision rests with the government of Canada.

"At the present time provincial highways run north through British Columbia from the American border to Prince George and Hazelton, on the Prince Rupert line of the Canadian National Railways," he said. These highways would form what might be called the groundwork of the proposed trunk road to Alaska. They would have to be improved, and extended north through the province to the Yukon and Alaska, following one of several routes roughly speaking north of Hazelton or of Prince George.

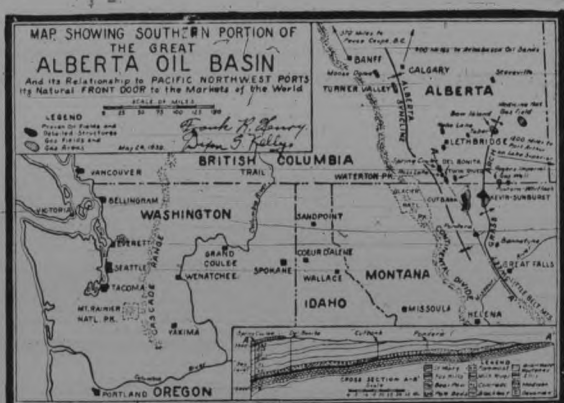

"Whichever of these routes should be finally adopted, there is not the slightest reason to suppose that the interests of the people of Alberta would be neglected. Alberta is ideally situated to tap an international highway north and south through British Columbia whichever route is adopted. Branch roads east and west through the mountains are quite practicable, and to a considerable extent are already built, by half a dozen different routes, from the Crow's Nest in the south to the Liard in the north."

"It has been ascertained there are no serious difficulties in building a road up the valley of the Peace to give the people of that enterprising and prosperous district of Alberta access to the transportation facilities of British Columbia, including the Alaska highway. If that road is built, Albertans need feel no anxiety about their opportunities of using it. Nature has taken care of that."

Canada's Peach Crop Of High Quality

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the greatest peach crops in Canada's history started coming on the market this week, it was stated at the department of agriculture today. "Not only is it one of the largest," the department's spokesman said, "but the quality of the crop is possibly the best ever produced in this country."

The Ontario crop is estimated at 650,000 bushels, 15 per cent more than the good crop of last year. The British Columbia crop is estimated at 143,000 bushels, an increase of 10 per cent.

$100,000 TO TEST NEW OILFIELD—Map shows the location of the Del Bonita and Twin River oil structures in Alberta which are now to be tested out through $100,000 put up by E. L. Cord, former motor manufacturer and now an international capitalist. The area to be tested is a long anti-clinical fold striking northwest into Canada from the Cutbank oilfield of Montana, just east of the Rockies. The field has been in the eyes of oil men for several years. The Cutbank field is already supplying three Spokane refineries with 5,000 barrels of crude a day. Development is to be carried on by the Terminal Oil Company and follows a contract Cord made last month with Sound Cities Gas and Oil Co. for development of its 11,000-acre lease on the Spring Coulee structure, Alberta.

REPORT ESTIMATES CROP DECLINE

OTTAWA (CP)—The condition of the spring wheat crop in Canada on July 31 was estimated in a crop report issued yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics as 89 per cent of the long-time average yield per acre. This represented a decline of 13 points from the conditional figure of 102 on June 30. The July 31 condition, however, was 7 points above last year's July 31 figure.

"Extremely high temperatures on the prairies during July combined with inadequate July precipitation to diminish the prospects for a bumper crop indicated at the end of June. Each of the three prairie provinces experienced approximately the same degree of decline in condition, although considerable variation within each province occurred."

Fire Kills World's Tallest Hardwood

MELBOURNE, Australia (Australian Press Bureau)—An aftermath of the bushfires which ravaged parts of Victoria during January has just come to light in the discovery of a fallen giant, the world's tallest hardwood tree.

It is a eucalypt, a mountain ash, which lay across the main track of the Mount Toorong forest, near Nojee, and had to be sawn through to give road access.

It was measured by the inspector of forests. From a point seven feet above the ground where the butt had become sufficiently symmetrical for milling to the point where the straight trunk had snapped off as it fell represented a main trunk of 324 feet.

This latter point had actually been 331 feet from the ground. The topmost twig which had snapped off was at least 10 feet higher. Even at 331 feet it was the tallest hardwood ever recorded in any part of the world.

HOP-PICKERS INVADE FIELDS

Crop of 2,000,000 Pounds Estimated In Fraser Valley

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP)—A wet spring retarded the Fraser Valley hop crop by about two weeks, but production of hops in the province still will amount to almost 2,000,000 pounds, worth $500,000.

And within a few days now the annual migration of hop-pickers into the neat, wire-strung fields will begin. All told about 6,650 pickers will be employed harvesting the crop from 735 acres near Chilliwack, 40 at adjoining Sumas, 210 at Agassiz across the Fraser River, and 30 at Kamloops.

Picking will be general throughout the Fraser Valley by the end of August. Trouble has been experienced on many farms from aphids and mildew, blamed by growers on the humid, moist growing season which continued late into the summer months. They say, however, that recent hot weather has cleared up the trouble before it affected quality or quantity of the crop.

This valley produces 90 per cent of the Canadian hop crop. Seventy-five per cent is marketed in Toronto and Montreal, a small percentage goes to European markets and the rest is absorbed by western Canada.

685 New Laws Curb Australian Priests

SYDNEY, Australia, (Australian Press Bureau)—Six hundred and eighty-five new laws or decrees, which affect the ecclesiastical discipline of the Roman Catholic Church in Australia and New Zealand, will shortly come into force. They were decided upon two years ago by plenary council in Sydney, and have now been confirmed in Rome. Under these decrees priests are:

Forbidden to attend horse or dog races and to make bets. Forbidden from attending prize-fights.

Warned that it is a "serious fault" to attend entertainments at which the attendance of priests would be a scandal to others.

Forbidden to associate themselves with political factions "even under the excuse of religion."

Forbidden to join lay societies without permission of the bishop. Forbidden to possess motor cars "savoring of luxury or ostentation."

A decree for the laity declares that even respectable amusements should be indulged in moderately and not prolonged far into the night. It also warns against extravagance, nonpayment of debts and gambling. The decree favors membership of trade unions, but much emphasis is laid on the need for "protecting the faithful from the poisonous penetration of Communism."

Death Interrupts Trial

WILSON, N.C. (AP)—A hearing of charges against a man of cursing and threatening to kill was deferred in magistrate's court yesterday because: The defendant's wife died in the courtroom of a heart attack; the plaintiff fainted; several witnesses became hysterical.

New Vancouver Park

VANCOUVER (CP)—W. H. Malkin, Vancouver businessman, yesterday offered a six-acre site valued at $13,180 to the city for use as a park. When the offer was read before the school and park sites committee, it was recommended to the city council for acceptance.

Debt, Taxes Cut Estate $20 Million

NEW YORK — The estate of George F. Baker II, late president of the First National Bank, has shrunk from $40,000,000 to $20,000,000 since his death, May 30, 1937. Taxes accounted for $6,000,000 of this and debts for $12,800,000, an accounting in Surrogates Court showed.

It was the third huge shrinkage in the fortune founded by George F. Baker Sr., who died in 1931 at the age of 89. After many generous gifts he left a net estate of nearly $100,000,000.

This figure shrank to $73,000,000 when the appraisal was completed in 1934. An additional $13,000,000 in the form of taxes reduced the fortune to $60,000,000 before it was turned over to George F. Baker II.

Another $5,000,000 shrinkage, plus a gift of $15,000,000 to a charitable trust, reduced the fortune to $40,000,000 when George F. Baker II died in Hawaii.

The state of the Baker fortune was disclosed when James F. Curtis, 61 Broadway, asked Surrogate's Court, on behalf of Baker's widow, Mrs. Edith Kane Baker, to delay accepting the accounting.

"This delay until next January will allow Mrs. Baker to choose between two alternatives," he may, if she wishes, accept the income from Baker's estate.

Under the law, she may also exercise her option to claim one-third of the net estate in cash—the widow's share.

Removing Names

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—The Louisiana State University board of supervisors is having names of all living persons removed from school buildings.

The name of former Governor Richard W. Leche, who resigned six weeks ago, and now is under indictment on an oil conspiracy charge, appears on the campus buildings more frequently than that of any other person.

The board said yesterday it would rename the buildings "in due course."

MANCHESTER, Eng.—Crime has increased "at an alarming rate" in this city since police have been busy assisting in air raid precaution and civil defence preparations.

PLANE SPOTTER WORKS EFFICIENTLY

Claimed British Machine Will Register 28 Hits Out of 39

By PAUL EVE
Associated Press Staff Writer
HORNCHURCH, Eng. — Lieutenant John Higginbotham in private life a bank clerk—strode proudly through a cabbage patch today to show off a two-gun anti-aircraft battery he is commanding in Great Britain's aerial war games.

A member of the territorial army, Lieut. Higginbotham fiddled with dials and buttons on a gadget which looks like a glorified adding machine. He explained that observers feed into the machine the height, speed and direction of a plane together with wind and weather and get an answer for gunners to shoot at.

"And," he added, "shells will hit 28 planes out of 39 shots."

Another of the 60,000 men participating in three days' defence of the country against mimic bomber attacks—Combat Pilot Albert Higgs, 22—leaned against a nearby plane and gave an airman's view of the games.

During 14 hours' duty, he said, he had been up a total of 20 minutes, long enough to "bring down several enemy planes."

Pointing toward one of eight machine guns built into the wings of a Spitfire fighter, he boasted: "I just press the joystick and these beauties pump 600 bullets into an enemy in four seconds."

In a field a mile away was an observer, sprawled in an easy chair, binoculars in hand, to watch for aircraft missed by a battery of microphone ear trumpets which "hear" planes automatically and point searchlights on them.

Still another defender sat in a cage on a heavy truck. He was waiting for an alarm to release one of hundreds of captive barrage balloons which lift-dangling steel cables to 3,000 feet to "demoralize" attackers.

Spots in this "wartime" setup which civilians were forbidden to see included special observers' posts fitted with the most secret of Britain's war devices. Some sources said these spot planes at great distances, making surprise attacks impossible.

Put It Over This Time

WE HOPE THE MEMBERS OF THE city council will spare no efforts to make effective without loss of time the proposals of Mr. F. E. Winslow's civic forum committee. For if there is one thing Victoria needs it is a civic auditorium and sports arena. There is no doubt of the public desire. It was emphasized by the overwhelming endorsement given on last year's vote to borrow $150,000 under the Municipal Improvements Assistance Act. The community was disappointed when its application under this act was ruled out.

The committee now asks that the city council submit a bylaw to the property owners for a bond issue to cover the costs of construction. The specifications have been scaled down now to a construction cost of $125,000. The net will be less than that because of the undertaking of the provincial and Dominion governments to pay the labor costs. The city already has the site available on reverted lands, centrally located, east of the City Hall. The guarantee of interest and sinking fund would amount to less than $9,200 a year. Even if the arena did not earn one cent this guarantee would amount to only 85 cents for each $3,000 of assessed property within the city.

On the experience of other cities across Canada which have built arenas during the last few years, there is no reason to fear the venture will not be self-supporting. Even smaller communities, such as Vernon, B.C., have found their arenas not only paid for themselves but are yielding the community a profit.

Here, the way in which the new motor and cycle racetracks, as well as improvised sports fields, are crowded, is indication of the public support the central arena may expect, especially during the winter season when outdoor attractions are off.

Victoria has been talking long enough. It is high time for action. If we are to have a structure available during the coming winter. Community organizations should get behind Mr. Winslow's committee to see that the forum is put over this time.

Jugoslavia Not Fooled

REPORTS SAY JUGOSLAVIA IS NOT prepared to be useful to the axis powers by maintaining a form of "benevolent neutrality" in case of a major war in Europe. There is no suggestion that any new crisis is to be expected as a result of this apparently definite decision on the part of the Belgrade government. What is clear is that this Balkan state has considered that compliance with totalitarianism's terms would endanger the nation's sovereignty. Such is obviously suggested by the nature of the deal proposed. This is reported to have included these provisions:

1. Wartime control of Yugoslav railroads.
2. Placing of Yugoslav economic and military centres under supervision of Germany and Italy.
3. Placing all Yugoslav war materials and foodstuffs at German-Italian disposal.
4. Granting Germany and Italy the right to cross Yugoslav territory to Roumania or Bulgaria.

The axis brothers' idea of "benevolent neutrality" is almost humorous. "Once in Yugoslavia under such an arrangement, of course, Nazi and Fascist troops would try to repeat Italy's quick manoeuvre in Albania. It might succeed for the moment; but such a move would promptly involve Anglo-French allies—more particularly Greece and Turkey—and other anti-totalitarian states. And if, as has been suggested, German agitation against Poland has been employed as a "blind" to mask preparations in southern Europe, someone has made a poor job of it.

It will be recalled that a little more than two months ago the head of the German Reich fete Prince Paul and Princess Olga of Yugoslavia. At a banquet in Berlin, indeed, the Fuehrer assured the Balkan state's Regent that his country's borders would be respected "for all time." What Yugoslavia's 15,000,000 somewhat mixed population thought of the Hitlerian promise is not known. But Prince Paul has been to London and Paris since then and, so reliable report has it, was assured of Anglo-French support if Yugoslavia were involved in conflict with the axis powers. It would not be surprising if Paul, even supposing he was impressed by Hitler, found the democratic assurance much more to his liking.

In any event, of course, Yugoslavia's geographical position is extremely handy for Nazi and Fascist aggression. Her northwest frontier lies against Germany and the whole of her Adriatic coastline fronts on Italy—which seized Yugoslavia's southern neighbor over the Easter week-end. On watch, however, is the "Stop Hitler" bloc.

More Than a Highway

PREMIER PATULLO'S BRIEF REFERENCE to the Alaska Highway project at the Liberal banquet in Toronto on Tuesday contained a good deal of information which was no doubt new to many easterners. His long residence in the northland before he entered the British Columbia Legislature 23 years ago enabled him to speak with authority on the potentialities of the proposed road. One of the most important points the Premier made was that the building of the highway not only would give employment to thousands of Canadians but also would enable those so engaged on construction work to familiarize themselves with the essential requirements for prospecting and other forms of rural activity. They would realize the possibilities of the vast area which the completed road would open up.

In other words, a substantial majority of these builders—and they would come from all kinds of environment—would soon learn the full significance of the oft-repeated statement that British Columbia's wealth of natural resources has scarcely been scratched. Nor will it be scratched further on a broad scale until some practical development work such as the building of the Alaska Highway is undertaken. Opponents of the scheme might well bear this in mind when they advance ill-considered criticisms.

Anniversary In Vienna

FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE ASSASSINATION of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss was observed the other day in Vienna, recalling the day that Schuschnigg's predecessor was struck down in a government office.

The ceremonies were not held at the grave of Dollfuss, however.

They were held in the street along which the Nazi killers rode on their way to the government building, and the ceremonies were in honor of the murderers.

Mayor Telford Not Ready?

HAVING BROUGHT HIS CHARGES, the Police Commission likewise having agreed on a full public inquiry, Mayor Telford naturally should be given time to prepare his case to back up his 12-point complaint of the manner in which the police affairs of Vancouver have been administered by Chief Constable W. W. Foster. But the argument of his fellow commissioners that the inquiry already should now be under way, that the delay is the Mayor's responsibility, would appear to have much to substantiate it.

Now we are told that hesitancy in beginning the probe has taken on a national aspect. It appears that a meeting of the committee on Canadian international security was scheduled for next Monday, and that Chief Foster—who, with the Chief of Staff of the Canadian defence forces and the Commissioner of the R.C.M.P., comprise the triumvirate—was to have been there. The meeting, however, has had to be postponed because Vancouver's Chief Constable will be unable to be present next Monday. Mayor Telford denies that he is deliberately holding matters up; he explains that in the interests of fair play he must have time for adequate preparation.

This explanation naturally will be considered reasonable; but it will not be forgotten if the elaborate charges which His Worship has proffered against his Chief Constable should not stand up under the searching light expected to be turned on them at the investigation.

Now France is attempting to raise the birth rate. The war bird of Europe these days is the stork.

They have lost a 6-foot, 100-pound key to a California bridge. Strange nobody heard it when it dropped.

Prime Minister Chamberlain explains he does not carry his umbrella on morning walks because it frightens birds in the park. It is too bad certain men aren't as scared of it.

The girl fined $50 for wearing shorts on the main street of a backwoods town turned out to be a beauty contest winner. Probably a lynch mob is looking for the fellow who filed the charges.

A British company is to make movies based on the careers of the nation's great men. It has been suggested a beginning be made with the life of Chamberlain, to be titled: "They Shall Have Munich."

Germany Outwits Britain?

From Toronto Star

The rapid overhauling of German plane production by Britain is not without its drawback because it is due largely to Germany halting the production of present-type planes and changing her factories over for the production of vastly superior planes. Major de Seversky, an airplane designer, who has just completed a tour of Europe in which he examined the planes and factories of many countries, declares that Germany is still far ahead of other countries in aviation research and that her new-type planes, which will be produced in quantity for the first time at the end of August, will surpass in speed, armament and flying range anything to be found elsewhere.

For that reason he doubts that Britain, whose models are at present better than German models, will possess superiority in the air this autumn. The aircraft industries of Italy and France lag behind the British and German industries. France is producing some fine planes, but they are not good enough.

One explanation of the big lead Germany gained over Britain in the number of air-planes was that Britain took time to develop planes of many different types, designed to meet a variety of military needs. Germany simplified her task by producing a few standard types on a mass scale. If her new planes prove to be superior, as Seversky says they are, Britain will have to re-tool her factories and develop something still better.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON
TWENTY YEARS

THIS WEEK Mr. Mackenzie King has been celebrating his 20th anniversary as leader of the Liberal Party of Canada. A great deal of friendly nonsense has been talked and written on this occasion and a little exaggeration among one's friends, after all, is to be expected. Still, the fact remains that Mr. King is a very remarkable man.

In an age when nonsense is talked about everything, I know of no subject about which more has been talked than about Mr. King. I know of no man less known to the people who go on electing him. Mostly he is elected for his weak points and attacked for his good ones. Mostly the public quite misunderstands the significance of his 20 years, has overlooked the important aspects of them and shouted about aspects that are of no value whatever.

What Mr. King will amount to in history I don't know, and I am pretty sure his critics and his advocates don't know either. You can never tell about these things. Borden, for example, was regarded as distinctly second-rate as compared with the giants, Macdonald and Laurier, but now in retrospect, when all the records are open at last, Borden appears in a new and larger stature as the man who, at Paris in 1919, gave this country the status of a nation. I think probably he achieved more than Laurier.

PARTY WASTED

So you don't know what they will say about Mr. King 50 years hence. Certainly there has been nothing spectacular about him for in appearance, presence and in mental processes he lacks that subtle thing called color. He offered nothing for cartoonists to get hold of. He created no anecdotes like the wonderful and convivial stories that cluster about the fine red nose of Macdonald. No legends have grown up about him as about the exquisite Laurier.

Yet with this deficiency, King has been master of his party and ruler of Canada during nearly all the post-war period, during the most difficult time in the history of this country. It takes something more than luck—of which he has had more than his share—to keep going all that time and to be stronger at the end of it than at the beginning. That is the peculiar thing—King today is stronger in his party and more the master of Canada than he ever was before. To a degree which the public never suspects he is the government of Canada.

SUCCESS SECRET

I think the secret of King is to be found in a curious kind of skilled workmanship, a strange day-to-day competence without brilliance, but with a strange fixity of purpose and the resilient strength of a fishing rod—yielding but never quite breaking. He is strong in his own way largely because he is alone. He is closer to the people than any Canadian politician because he has a woman's intuition about electorates, but also because he conducts a personal correspondence with obscure people all over the country, and he could only do it by living a lonely life.

Other politicians parade through the country making speeches. Mr. King lives alone in the house of Laurier, where you dine with him in the great paneled dining-room by candlelight and there is no one else in the house but the servants and an old Irish terrier, who likes to lie on your feet under the table. Upstairs in his study Mr. King conducts the government of Canada, and it is a place meant for thought and calculation—a cosy room, lined with books, and with a large desk and beside it a little table to hold an occasional cup of tea and a biscuit. Beside the fireplace is a portrait in oils of Mr. King's mother and it is illuminated by a special electric light, like a little shrine.

PRINCIPLES

Mr. King is a lonely man but not a cold man as many people seem to think. In his home he is lively, affable and human. Yet you have the feeling that no one ever really shares his inner mind. It was typical of him that during the Munich crisis, as he lay ill in an agony of static, he personally decoded all the messages from Downing Street and kept them entirely to himself.

What he has contributed to our times I do not know, and neither do his friends nor his critics. They won't know for a long time yet for in these times the negative side of a statesman's life is often more important than the positive side. In other words, what would have happened to the country under a man different from King—a violent, vigorous, impatient man like Bennett? Could the somewhat fragile web of Confederation stand so much strain?

Mr. King has been guided from the start by two principles. The first is the practical principle of getting elected, which is the business of a politician and anyone who criticizes that is no democrat. The second is that the first duty of a Canadian Prime Minister is to hold Canada together, to work out compromises between the conflicting interests of the country, to comfort, soothe, placate and cure.

In both those enterprises he has been pretty successful. A greater man could have got greater results. A lesser, more vociferous man, a man more popular with the populace, could have wrecked the country. But we had better wait 50 years before we write a verdict.

WARM?

So What! You're grumbling 'cause it's warm?
Remember summer's getting old—A little heat will do no harm.
You'll soon be shivering with the cold.
The frost will lie on bush and tree,
The wind will blow with withering blasts.
Forget to grouse—and happy be,
Enjoy the summer while it lasts.

Dictionaries say the origin of the word "picnic" is unknown. All right, let's originate a derivation: Picnic—An out-of-doors party where mosquitoes pick nicks in you.

Hitler's Hand Forced

By ELMORE PHILPOTT

WHY DID HITLER decide to annex Czechoslovakia in March of this year? It was his first great international blunder. It turned the whole world against him. It ended the appeasement policy in England and set even Mr. Chamberlain busy bringing Poland, Roumania, Greece and Turkey into a defensive bloc. Moreover, it was directly contrary to the program as laid down in Hitler's book. He had warned against trying to absorb alien people who would inevitably upset the idea of racial homogeneity. He had attributed the downfall of the old Austro-Hungarian Empire to this very fact, that it tried to digest all sorts and manners of people. And he was already master of Czechoslovakia from the military and strategic standpoint.

The most thought-provoking suggestion that I have heard has just come to me from England. It suggests that Hitler's hand was forced by the fact that his own annexation of the Sudetenland had created such an acute economic crisis in that country that the only way to forestall disaster was to reunite the Sudetenland to its economic counterpart, namely, old Bohemia.

I do not suppose that we will ever know the truth about this swift change of plan until Hitler is dead and Nazism is a thing of the past. But it does suggest to me the way in which the hands of believers in violence are always forced. They take one step and then find that that one step has set in motion a train of circumstances which force them to another.

People are talking these days

IF GERMANY DOMINATED

To the Editor:—We hear much about the injustice of the Versailles treaty. Now let us take a look at what Germany's idea was for the treatment of a conquered people. By that we can learn not only what Hitler wants to do in Europe but will also get an idea of what would have happened to Canada and other parts of the Empire.

By the treaty of Brest-Litovsk in March, 1918, Germany stood almost on the outskirts of Petrograd, held all Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia, occupied the entire Ukraine and extended its domination to the rich oil fields of Baku on the Caspian sea.

This area contained 34 per cent of Russia's population, 32 per cent of her farm land, 54 per cent of her industry and 89 per cent of her coal from the home-land. All this in spite of the peace resolution of July, 1917, "denying any desire for conquest."

Hitler was not in power then but has since said in Mein Kampf "this peace was of boundless humanity, conferring on such sub-humans as the Poles, etc., the inestimable bounty of German culture."

Well, the inhabitants of Guernica in Spain know something about German culture, those that are left alive.

But the joke was on Germany after all. The half million men occupying this Russian territory might have saved Germany on the western front, but became so infected with revolutionary virus that Germany was afraid to remove them from Russia. These particulars are from "Brest-Litovsk, The Forgotten Peace," by Wheeler-Bennett.

The most tragic thing for the Empire in this critical period of its history is that a common politician like Chamberlain should be in power instead of a man with some claim to statesmanship.

WANTS ACTION ON GASOLINE

To the Editor:—No one can accuse the Times of not having a sense of humor or it would not tell the public "that motorists are not very interested in reduction of the price of gasoline."

If motorists appear, this way, it is not that they lack interest, but because at the back of their minds they do not think the B.C. government intends to push this matter very hard and that it is a "blind" to win elections and head off new political set-ups. Have we not experienced the same thing in regard to school taxation at a cost of tens of thousands of dollars, but nothing done other than line the pockets of lawyers. The Minister of Agriculture is now telling the farmers they must raise more sheep! More wool to pull over our eyes, I presume.

JUST AN OLD CANADIAN CUSTOM
To the Editor:—Will someone please explain how it is that in England any measure passed by the Houses of Parliament is law, whereas in this country it is law only if it does not affect the rights of the financial interests. If it does affect them they get an injunction and get the courts to politely disallow the measure.

We have seen this happen before in Alberta, and now to us in B.C., when the government made a puny attempt to reduce the price of gasoline.

The government knew beforehand that they are merely cat-paws for the financial interests, so their effort was made just to blind the man on the street into believing that at last their government was really trying to put through some legislation that would benefit him.

Surely we, the public, will really wake up one of these days and realize that anything we want we must get ourselves.

IF IT'S Borden's IT'S GOT TO BE GOOD

"Bless my horns," says Elsie, the Borden Cow, "enough people have tried to copy Chateau Cheese... but the grand flavour of this golden, 'mellow-mild' cheese is a Borden secret." Properly aged cheese is used in Chateau's special blend. And it takes more than two quarts of rich milk from healthy Borden cows like Elsie to make just a half a pound. You'll smack your lips over Chateau in sandwiches. Nothing finer ever kept such appetizing company with a soda cracker. And Chateau Cheese toasts in the oven to a mouth-watering golden brown... makes the finest cooked dishes you ever tasted.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ON AIR PROPOSED

Rev. Spender Darby Plans
New Form of Religious Service For Children

The first radio Sunday school in Canada, to be conducted over Station CFCT for the benefit of children not attached to other Sunday schools, is proposed by Rev. Spender W. Darby, recently appointed pastor of the Church of Our Lord, Free Church of England.

In an effort to determine the extent of the interest in such a move Mr. Darby is appealing for the names of any children who would be interested in the move, either as part of the studio or listening audiences. Names of those interested should be sent to him care of Station CFCT, Central Building.

Since shortly after his arrival here Mr. Darby has become known to the air audience for his program entitled "Monday Night at Eight." His proposal for the Sunday school of the air is being made possible through the co-operation of George Deaville, manager of the station.

The hour between 4 and 5 on Sunday afternoons has been suggested for the school. It is intended to have a studio audience of 40 to 50 children from 11 to 16 who will form the choir, with older children taking part by reading the lessons and prayers.

Trial in Absentia

MELILLA, Spanish Morocco (CP.Havas) — General Jose Maja, "defender of Madrid," was being tried here today in absentia in a Spanish Nationalist court, which is to fix his "political responsibilities" in the civil war.

Both the general and his wife, who are in exile in Mexico, are being tried by the court.

MANY HEAR BAND CONCERT AT PARK

Beacon Hill Park was the centre of a large and enthusiastic audience last night when the second of three philharmonic concerts was presented by the Victoria Orchestra Society under the auspices of the B.C. Electric Railway Company. The orchestra was under the direction of Alfred Prescott. The final concert will take place on Wednesday, August 23 at 7.30.

A well rounded out program, mixing the classical with the popular, showed the orchestra at its best. This was amply proven by the enthusiasm of the audience after each number was played.

The program consisted of "Three Dances from Henry VIII" (German); the first movement from Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony"; Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro"; four arrangements or orchestra of selections from "The Student Prince," by Romberg, and one of Johann Strauss' famous Viennese waltzes.

Miss Winnifred Applegate, soprano, and Mr. Thomas Crabbe, baritone, were featured in the vocal solos and added much towards the success of the concert. Both showed wonderful talent in the interpretation of their art. Miss Applegate sang "In My Garden," "Indian Love Call," and as an encore, "Last Rose of Summer." Mr. Crabbe sang "On the Road to Mandalay" and "A Dream." Miss Applegate and Mr. Crabbe were heard in a duet, "Barcarole" from the "Tales of Hoffman."

A public address system carried the voices of the soloists to all listeners and proved very satisfactory to those who were unable to secure seats near the bandstand.

Duncan Council

DUNCAN—Duncan City Council on Tuesday evening considered two resolutions received from Saanich in regard to preservation of exports of material for war, but no action was taken. A request was received from the Vimy Women's Institute asking that proper rest room accommodation be provided in Duncan. They will be advised that this question had already been taken up with the directors of the Cowichan Agricultural Society. The matter of additional fire hydrants in the business area was referred to the fire wardens. Application from the Canadian Legion for a sidewalk in front of their new building was received. They were informed that it is not the practise of the council to build sidewalks except for whole blocks, but have no objection to the Legion making a small walk there. The clerk was authorized to call for tenders for the construction of a concrete pavement on Craig Street. The sewerage plan committee was authorized to submit plans to the provincial health officer for approval and to the inspector of municipalities with an application for approval of a 2 per cent loan.

MARS IS VIEWED FROM BEACON HILL

Victorians and tourists turned out in large numbers last night to obtain a good view of Mars and other heavenly bodies through two large telescopes set up at Beacon Hill by members of the local branch of the Royal Astronomical Society.

The astronomers on hand to explain the various features of the red planet, which was the main topic of conversation among the audience, were: Robert Peters, president of the local Astronomical Society Branch, and K. O. Wright of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory. Mr. Wright was assisted by Miss Phebe Riddle.

Mars, Jupiter and several double stars were shown. The speakers told the audience why

Mars was in close proximity to the earth, and also told them a few of the outstanding facts regarding the planet.

The astronomers on hand to explain the various features of the red planet, which was the main topic of conversation among the audience, were: Robert Peters, president of the local Astronomical Society Branch, and K. IF IT'S Borden's IT'S GOT TO BE GOOD

"THIS IS MY IDEA OF A PERFECTLY MOD-VELOUS CUP OF COFFEE!"

"Coffee seems to taste just right when it's made with Borden's Evaporated Milk," asserts Elsie, the Borden Cow.

That's because Borden's Evaporated is so smooth and creamy. It's the pure milk from Borden-inspected cows like Elsie, evaporated to double-rich creaminess soon after milking time. Borden's is always extra-fresh... and extra-good for all the family because it's irradiated for an added supply of the essential "Sunshine" Vitamin D.

Ozard-Margison Wedding at Cathedral

Well-known Couple United at Pretty Ceremony

A pretty wedding drew an interested congregation to Christ Church Cathedral last evening at 8, when Marjorie Lillian, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Margison, Avalon Road, and Mr. Elmore George Ozard, elder son of Mr. George Ozard, Victoria, and of the late Mrs. Ozard, were married by Very Rev. Spencer H. Elliott, Dean of Columbia.

The altar was graced with gladioli and gypsophila, and the guest pews marked with white pompon chrysanthemums, tied with white ribbons, the decorations being arranged by girl friends of the bride. Miss Jean Elliott, daughter of the Dean played the bridal music.

IN WHITE SATIN

Given in marriage by her father, the bride made a charming picture in her gown of white brocade satin with a full floor-length skirt extending to a short train, the bodice being finished with long pointed sleeves. Her veil of tulle was embroidered at the corners and fell in filmy folds from a coronet of seed pearls to the end of the train, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and sweet peas.

Three attendants preceded the bride to the altar.

Mrs. James Edmonds of Britannia Beach, was matron of honor, and wore a Princess gown of pale pink silk marquisette over satin, with a full skirt, the bodice having short sleeves and a high neck with a turn-down collar. Her picture hat of matching mohair was trimmed with a single rose and streamers down the back. She carried a sheaf of blue delphiniums and blue cornflowers.

Miss Ruth McTavish and Miss Helen Ockenden were the bridesmaids, in bouffant frocks of azure blue marquisette over blue satin, brocade in large pink and yellow roses. The brides featured short puff sleeves and V-necks. Their small hats of blue mohair were trimmed with knots of pink and blue flowers on the crowns, and they carried bouquets of mauve sweet peas and pink carnations.

The bride's brother, Mr. Gilbert Margison, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Cowper Newbury and Mr. Norton Adamson.

RECEPTION HELD

After the ceremony, the bridal party and relatives were entertained by the bride's parents at their home, where mauve and pink sweet peas and gladioli were effectively arranged. During the reception, the bride and groom stood in a bay window between cornucopias filled with gladioli. Supper was served from a table decorated with white pompon chrysanthemums in a silver bowl flanked by tall white tapers in silver holders; the decorations being the handiwork of Mrs. Duncan McTavish. The three-tier wedding cake stood on the bride's table.

Mrs. Margison welcomed the guests in a smart frock of wisteria wool crepe with matching accessories, and wore a corsage bouquet of mauve sweet peas and white carnations. Receiving with her was the bridegroom's aunt, Miss Marquerite Ozard, in a gown of navy blue satin-back crepe, with navy blue accessories and a corsage bouquet of pink carnations and sweet peas.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Tait, Vancouver; Miss Sheila Garrard, Vancouver; and Miss Helen K. Margison of Los Angeles, Cal., cousin of the bride.

LEAVE FOR SOUTH

After a honeymoon trip south by motor, Mr. and Mrs. Ozard will make their home at 21st Avenue West, Vancouver. For traveling the bride chose a smart outfit of grey French wool crepe with touches of pink and blue, worn with a long coat, and blue hat trimmed with pink.

Vancouver Drug Co. Ltd. Store to Sell Medicine at 25c For 3 Days

Offer Is Good Thursday, Friday and Saturday Only; Preparations Made for Large Crowds

If you were told that by simply clipping a coupon from a newspaper you could get a high-quality medicine for only 25c, it would sound unbelievable, wouldn't it? Yet it is true and such an offer is being made here in Victoria today, Friday and Saturday by Vancouver Drug Co. Ltd. Store, Fort and Douglas Street.

Why Offer Is Made

This offer is made because we believe everyone who suffers should have the chance to try a medicine at small cost to see if it will help them before they believe many sufferers in Victoria and vicinity need the medicine we offer. The medicine referred to is a new scientific formula of 15 roots and herbs and other splendid medicinal agents, known as Mosby's Tonic, which has helped so many Canadian people. Therefore, we offer each person a liberal introductory bottle for 25c (tomorrow and Saturday only) because we believe those who are benefited will keep on using it. The full marked price of the regular size of this medicine is $1.35.

How It Acts

Mosby's Tonic is taken after meals and mixes with the food in one's stomach, thus helping Nature eliminate the poisons that foster stomach troubles and permitting the kidneys and liver to function more properly. It acts within 10 minutes to stop gas pains, sourness, bloating and belching. It will not gripe or nauseate and makes your liver more active and help clear away the old bile from your system. At the same time, Mosby's Tonic helps Nature by its diuretic action upon the kidneys to relieve backache.

Now, whether or not it will help you as it has thousands of others—whether it will relieve your suffering in a day or a week cannot be said. But owing to the merit of this medicine, it would seem only wise to try it for 25c.

This offer is good Thursday, Friday and Saturday ONLY, so read the rest of this announcement and act at once. Do this in your own interest.

What It Will Do

Mosby's Tonic will cleanse your bowels (gradually—not drastic or severe) and tone them into better daily action. It will bring out gases and impurities (frequently from the first dose) which may have been the real cause all along of your gas pains, sourness and stomach distress. Mosby's Tonic will act as a diuretic to sluggish kidneys, thus relieving backache, sharp pains and disturbed sleep caused by slow kidney action. It will help clear-up skin eruptions that are caused by the impurities in the organs, thus avoiding the sallow, "muddy" complexion that is due to sluggish liver. By removing accumulations of poisons from the kidneys and bloodstream, it helps relieve rheumatic and neuritis pains. Mosby's Tonic will make your STOMACH, LIVER, KIDNEYS and BOWELS more active, build you up in general and make you feel like a different MAN or WOMAN.

How to Get It for 25c

To get your first bottle for 25c (Friday and Saturday ONLY), bring coupon to Vancouver Drug Co. Ltd. Store, Fort and Douglas Sts. Our out-of-town readers may send coupon with 35c (stamp or coin) to Vancouver Drug Co. Ltd., Fort and Douglas Sts., and medicine will be shipped prepaid.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!
Peppless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.
The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and peevish. Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power. Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today.

Scottish Women Find Canada Strenuous

Visiting Farm Women 'Not Geared to Our Way of Living'

TORONTO (CP)—The 59 Scottish farm women visiting eastern Canada under auspices of the Scottish Rural Women's Association think "ours are terrible" and they want to know "whether Canadian women ever slow down."

"We're not geared to your way of living," one of them said here today. "Canadian women seem to think nothing of doing a couple of hundred miles at a time. Why, we think a motor trip of 50 miles is something out of the question."

The Scottish women came to Canada to learn about Canadian farming and Canadian home life in the country.

GIRLS LIST MEN'S FAULTS

SYDNEY, Australia (Australian Press Bureau)—Having long suffered repetitions of what men do and do not like about them, Australian girls, who are reputed occasionally to give points to their sisters in Europe and America, have now raised their voices in chorus of their definite dislikes about men. The most frequently mentioned are:

1. Walking on the wrong side of a girl in the street, and keeping hats on, smoking, or not standing up when speaking to a girl.
2. Gossiping, especially about women.
3. Wearing loud shirts, hats, ties and socks.
4. Being childish about their hurts.

Here are some more:

"Men who call for you and sit in the car and toot instead of coming to the door annoy me intensely."—Society girl.

"I wish men wouldn't say 'Mr. Smith speaking,' instead of 'Smith speaking' on a telephone."—Switchboard girl.

"I hate men to say 'I'm in love with you—I've never been in love like this before.' There's no need to tell lies."—Beauty expert.

"I don't like men with hairy chests in bathing trunks."—Nurse.

"Men who burn holes in carpets and chairs are the ones I detest. We don't buy ashtrays for fun."—Married woman.

"Why must men chat to waitresses? It's most embarrassing. Women don't chat to waiters."—Nurse.

"Generally hateful to most girls, I think, is the mauling man who, when talking to you, must put his hand on your shoulder or hold your arm. He mightn't mean anything, but he's a nuisance."—A widow.

Ex-Actress in Charge Of U.S. Airmarking

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many a novice flier caught in stormy weather thanks Mrs. Blanche Noyes when he spots a big black and yellow rooftop sign that points his way to the nearest airport and a safe landing.

Mrs. Noyes, one-time actress who now is the United States government's only official woman pilot, runs the airmarking project of the civil aeronautics authority.

Mrs. Noyes criss-crosses the continent regularly in her plane. She confers with governors and speaks to government groups and civic clubs, emphasizing the need for marking each town to aid the thousands of private fliers who are without wireless and other safety aids of scheduled airline pilots.

After a state sponsor is obtained and arrangements made for W.P.A. labor, Mrs. Noyes is ready with technical advice. About 20,000 of the markers have been installed, officials estimate.

The slim woman flier once played feminine leads with George Brent and Roger Pryor in their premovie days as Blanche Wilcox.

Barber Battles for Tonsorial Rights

Experts Sit in Judgment As Applicant Proves Claim to License

After six unsuccessful efforts in Vancouver, John Wilfred McAllister came to Victoria yesterday on an order which he secured from a County Court judge to fight again for his right to follow his chosen profession of barbering.

Not being satisfied with the decisions when he took the tests in Vancouver, McAllister requested a change of venue, and yesterday behind closed doors the examination was held at the Horseshoe Barber Shop.

Arthur Clarke, B. M. Carruthers and Gil McLaughlin, members of the craft, sat in judgment.

Their duties required them to watch the aspirant for a barber's license cut hair, to weigh the dexterity of his strokes, to see his clipper work was even, that no scissor marks showed on the finished product, that sides of his client's head were shaved correctly.

The patter line, covering the weather, the European situation, local lites and bathing beauties, did not count in the examination.

When McAllister made his last attempt in Vancouver, his model moved suddenly, he claimed, disconcerting him and leaving the job unsatisfactory.

Victoria's model was not expected to move. He was securing a free haircut and he wanted the best for his "money."

The findings of the barber judges will be written, sealed and handed to His Honor Judge McIntosh.

ability and the car he will be handling are expected to stand him in with the best. All local drivers are reported ready for the battle. They include: Bert Sutton, Jerry Van-treight, Jimmy Laird, Diggar Caldwell, Fred Carson, Jimmy Wells, Buddy Green, Sid Holde-ridge, Jack Frumento and Joe Moore.

In a practice last night at the speedway Moore was turning it on in his No. 10 car when he lost a rear wheel coming down the stretch. The wheel shot ahead of the car, broke through the fence, bounded across the parking lot, the highway and landed in the bushes 300 or more yards from where it started. The car was not damaged seriously and will be ready for the meet.

Promoter Jack Taylor of the Langford Speedway's automobile race meets said today that he had secured four American drivers for Saturday night's program, including Wally Schock, Los Angeles, who won the main event last week.

Schock will again be driving his No. 9 car and after two performances on the local oval, should be feeling more at home. Jimmy Symes, Seattle, who put up excellent contests against the southern boy last week, will again be driving Glen Shaw's No. 1 power plant, formerly handled by the famous Swede Linskog. Lou McMurtry in his 62 car will be in the thick of things again and the fourth driver will be Jud Taylor at the wheel of car No. 37.

Taylor has not been around this way for some time but his driving work, knitting, crochet and rug-making section, stated the work should be well recommended, especially mentioning the house dress made from a flour sack and exhibited by Mrs. D. M. Spence, Langford Lake; Mrs. H. Parker secured the highest award in the Afghan section, with a distinctive design and beautiful coloring. Mrs. Spence also secured high honors for a hooked rug, with the judge's comment of distinctive evenness. The judges regretted the small entry list in the crochet section, but stated the quality was very good.

Mrs. R. E. Nimmo judged the home-cooking, jams and jellies. The children's section was well represented, keen competition again displayed this year in the cake making, but the laurels were again captured by a boy, Ritchie LeQuessne of Langford. The fine work exhibited in the dresses made by two young girls, Helen Silman and Margaret Strathern, was warmly praised by the judge. A beautiful commercial display of gladioli shown by Arrowsmith and Son of Bazan, was greatly admired.

The judges were the guests of the combined institutes at a luncheon served under the con- venship of Mrs. H. Parker.

3. Is it good manners to continually show "hurt feelings"?

4. Is it good manners to seem eager for the other person to finish a story so that you can better it?

Cincinnati Wins Double-header

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

WHILE VICTORIANS are sweltering in heat that reminds them of baseball, cricket and other summer sports, Scottish sportsmen eagerly await the opening of another football season on August 12. For tens of thousands up and down the country it means the start of the nine-months campaign north of the River Tweed.

As the 38 teams that make up the Scottish League's two divisions finish pre-season training, critics throughout Scotland speculate on the chances of a dark horse appearing to break the stranglehold of two famous Glasgow clubs on league honors. Between them Rangers and Celtic have kept the title in Glasgow since 1932, the former winning their 24th championship in a canter last April.

To prove that their hopes arise not only from wishful thinking the experts point to the success of East Fife and Clyde in the Scottish Cup competition. The Methil squad made history two years ago, becoming the first second division club to win the trophy by vanquishing Kilmarnock. Clyde, an outsider in mid-season, carried off the honors last year at the expense of a doughty Motherwell eleven.

Entering senior company this year will be Cowdenbeath and Alloa, leader and runner-up respectively in the second division race last season. With an unbeaten home record and only two losses on foreign soil, Cowdenbeath chalked up 60 points in 34 games and scored 120 goals against 45. Alloa finished level with East Fife but won promotion by a much superior goal average.

Both clubs are strong in attack and should prove worthy successors to Queen's Park and Raith Rovers, who finished at the bottom of the major league and dropped into the second division. The Rovers were in difficulty throughout the campaign but it was nip and tuck between St. Mirren and the amateurs during the closing days of the competition. Queen's Park finally finished two points behind the Saints. The decline of the famous old club is regretted throughout Scotland.

Sparked by the clever Alex Venters last season the Rangers went into the lead in November and were never headed. The light blues finished with 59 points, 11 more than their old rivals, the Celts, who had a slight edge on Aberdeen for the runner-up position. Venters was the major league's leading goal-getter, scoring 36 goals in league and cup competition.

National League Baseball Leaders Turn On Chicago For Twin Victory

Everybody likes a good joke and it appears Cincinnati Reds and New York Yankees are the jokers in baseball's big league deck. Knowing they can control any trick, this pair just lies back and waits for timely spots to trump.

The proper moment came yesterday and the Reds romped over Chicago Cubs in a National League doubleheader 7 to 5 and 11 to 3 while the Yanks exploded Washington Senators' eight-game American League winning streak with a 13 to 8 firecracker.

The Reds staged a four-run assault in the seventh inning of the first game and crowded nine runs into the fifth frame of the nightcap. Buck McCormick singled with the bases loaded in the big first stanza and Wally Berger, who homered in each game, got his second with two on to climax the other spree.

Undaunted, the second-place St. Louis Cardinals stretched their string of consecutive victories to 10 with a 5 to 3 triumph over Pittsburgh Pirates. Arky Vaughan hit a homer with one on to put the Buccaneers in front but Johnny Mize, Joe Medwick and Don Gutteridge beat him with his own weapons.

VALUABLE HOMER

In yesterday's only other National League activity, New York Giants swatted Boston Bees in both halves of a doubleheader 5 to 4 and 6 to 5. They had to overcome a four-run lead in the opener, Johnny McCarthy's pinch homer showing the way. The nightcap was decided in the 11th inning on a wild pitch by Fred Frankhouse with the bases loaded.

The Yankees made sport of their old rivals, the Senators, scoring 11 of their 13 runs in the first three innings and Joe Di Maggio and Frank Crosetti homered with men on base to end New York's reputed hitting slump.

Buddy Lewis, Washington third baseman, was hit on the head with a ball thrown to first by pitcher Red Ruffing and was taken to a hospital. However, he was not believed seriously hurt.

Johnny Marcum, Chicago White Sox relief pitcher, also was painfully injured when a liner batted by Hank Greenberg struck him in the face. Four stitches were taken over his right eye. The game was won by the Detroit Tigers 10 to 3 behind the effective seven-hit hurling of Schoolboy Rowe.

Led by Jimmy Foxx the Boston Red Sox came from behind twice to sweep a bargain bill from Philadelphia Athletics 5 to 3 and 6 to 5. In the first Foxx hit a triple and a home run. Ted Williams singled with the bases loaded in the ninth inning to win the second.

Like so many players after being traded, Julius Solters arose to haunt Cleveland Indians yesterday with three hits which drove in three runs but the Tribe stopped St. Louis Browns 6 to 5.

COAST LEAGUE
Sacramento's climbing campaign in the Pacific Coast Baseball League seems to have reached a temporary standstill and one of the big reasons is a third sacker of the San Diego club who answers to the name of Mickey Haslin.

Haslin, acquired by the Padres early this year in a deal which sent pitcher Manuel Salvo to the New York Giants, batted balls all over the lot last night as the Padres beat Sacramento in both ends of a doubleheader at Sacramento 10 to 4 and 3 to 1.

In the opener he hit a home run, a double and a single to drive in four runs besides scoring three himself, and in the nightcap he doubled to account for two of his club's three runs.

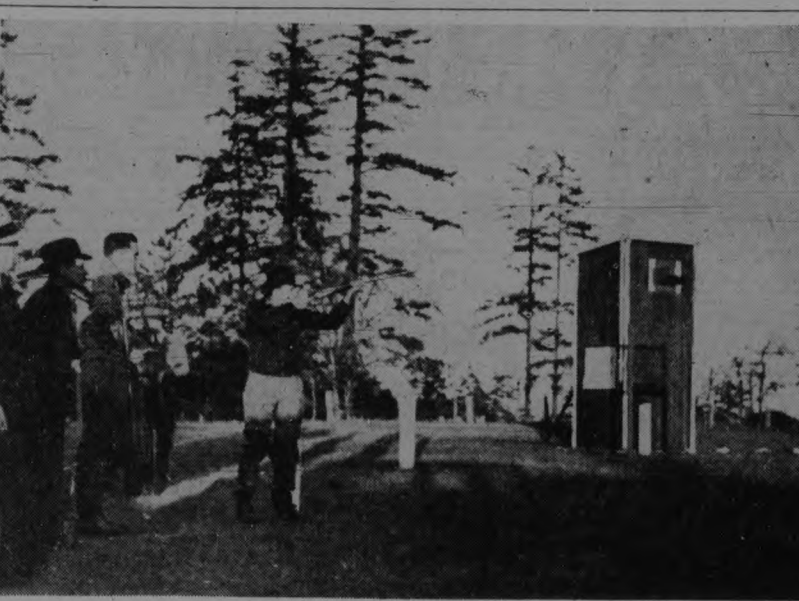

It was San Diego's third straight win over the Senators, who had been bowling over the competition like tenpins in their climb from the league cellar to fourth place.

Seattle, meantime, increased its lead to five and one-half games (Turn to Page 10, Col. 5)

A's Deadlock Series

Defeat Pitzer and Nex 7 to 1 in Second Game of City Baseball Playoff

Playoff for the city baseball championship was all tied up at one game each today. In the second battle of the best-of-seven series at the Athletic Park last night the Athletics turned on Pitzer and Nex for a 7 to 1 victory. The gammen had taken the opening engagement 7 to 5 Monday evening and the teams will meet in the third clash Monday night.

After four scoreless innings the Athletics moved ahead with a three-run rampage in the fifth. With the bases filled Lloyd Cann, Athletics number one hurler, smacked a double to push home two runs. The third was gained on a "squeeze" play.

No further scoring was seen until the eighth and final inning when the Athletics crashed home four more runs to clinch matters. Feature of this scoring spree was Sonny Walker's home run over the centre-field fence. Pitzer and Nex counted their lone run in the last half of the inning.

Cann, during the eight innings, held Pitzer and Nex to three scattered hits, while he struck out nine and walked one. Louis Leonard, started for Pitzer and Nex, and worked until the eighth when he was pulled in favor of Lorne Murray. The Athletics collected 11 hits off Leonard while he fanned four.

Tomorrow night at the Athletic Park the touring Broadway Clowns will meet the Victoria All-Stars at 6.15 in the first of a three-game exhibition series. Two games will be played Saturday, starting at 2.30 and 6.15.

Clowns are reported to have a first-class ball club. Four of their players, Breedlove, Sampson, Coleman and Ewing played here last season with the colored House of David.

Whitehead Bike Racing Victor

Takes Two Firsts And Second at Cycledrome Meet

Eric Whitehead planted himself at the top of the honor list at the Cycledrome bicycle race meet last evening when he topped himself two firsts—one in the feature five mile event with his partner, Alan Duval—and a second, in the three contests in which he took part.

The second win for the blond-haired cycle speedster was in an eight-lap open sprint against the pick of local riders, Jack Barton, Gordie Bell, Pat Hoole, Gar Warren and E. Smith. He placed second to Bell in a 25-lap contest with sprints every five laps.

The program on the whole presented good riding and competition to satisfy a fairly large crowd of sports fans on hand. Professional riders, Torchy Peden, Rusty Peden and Lew Rush, got away from the more serious business of racing with a comedy act well received by the crowd and later presented an exhibition 20-lap sprint event.

YOUNG RIDERS GOOD
In addition to fine riding by the senior amateurs and the pros, some good races were provided by an up and coming group of younger boys.

Whitehead and Duval, younger brother of rider Neil Duval, who was not able to take part in the main event on the program—the five-mile race. Duval showed himself to be following closely in the footsteps of his brother in the game. The riders well earned their victory and won rounds of applause from the grandstanders. They had 26 points.

Finishing second in the event was Gordie Bell and Ron Warren with 10 points and two teams tied for the third spot with 8 points apiece. The teams were Gar Warren and R. Bell, and Pat Hoole and C. Warren.

Hoole and his partner started the event in grand form, winning the first sprint at the end of the 11th lap with room to spare. They were not able to hold on to their (Turn to Page 13, Col. 2)

Hamilton Marksman Captures Tait-Brassey Match at Ontario Meeting

LONG BRANCH, Ont. (CP) — Major H. E. Rowlands of Hamilton, six times a member of Canada's Bisley team, won the Tait-Brassey match at the annual Ontario Rifle Association meet yesterday with a remarkable score of 104 of a possible 105.

Despite a gusty cross-wind, whipping across the ranges from Lake Ontario, Rowlands fired possibilities of 35 on the second and third ranges after a first-stage score of 34. The Tait-Brassey is second in importance at the meet to the Lieutenant-Governor's match.

The experienced Hamilton shot, who has qualified five times for the Bisley meet since he last competed there in 1925, led the field by three points.

Pte. G. A. Herring of Ottawa, Pte. H. Thorburn of Vancouver and Lieut. A. F. Gormley of Charlottetown posted totals of 101 to rank second, third and fourth, respectively.

Pte. F. H. Kirkman of Toronto and Sergt. P. M. Gibault of Vancouver had the only 99's to finish the gruelling competition in fifth and sixth places.

C.S.M. George Emslie of Toronto, another Bisley veteran, won his second shoot-off victory of the meet, capturing the O.R.A. silver medal for the Duke of Cornwall and York match to defeat Sergt. Gibault and Pte. F. H. Wallace of Toronto on five extra rounds at 600 yards. Emslie had a 22 and the others 20 apiece.

Mrs. Hugo Rayment of Victoria, only woman competing in the militia matches, scored 34-32—66 for sixth place.

Fourth Day Free From Injuries

City's Traffic Safety Campaign Moves On Successfully

Victoria's traffic safety campaign moved into its fourth day today as city motorists continued to keep a clean record of no accidents which resulted in hospital cases.

A minor accident involving two cars was reported in James Bay last night, but there were no personal injuries and thus the crash did not mar the campaign record.

Another large crowd witnessed last night's showing of the Shell Oil Company's "Share the Road" talking picture on Blanshard Street and the film will be shown for the last time tomorrow night at 9 on View Street.

The city traffic department was continuing its vigilance for those who insist on committing minor infractions, while brake testing was being carried out at the rate of between 80 and 90 cars a day.

KIPLING SOCIETY PICNIC AT FARM

The Dominion Experimental Farm at Sidney was yesterday the scene of the annual outing of the local branch of the Kipling Society.

Over 30 members took part in the picnic and during the afternoon were shown over the farm by E. M. Straight, superintendent. Numerous trees and shrubs with interesting histories were pointed out to the members.

Tea was served following the tour, with the president, A. E. G. Cornwall, welcoming the guests. Others who assisted were Mrs. M. Neal, secretary; Philip Oliver, Mrs. A. Church and Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Thompson.

A motion was passed instructing the secretary to send a letter of sympathy to the Capetown branch of the society, South Africa, on the recent sudden death of their secretary.

Extend Old Age Pension Rules

Regulations under which old age pensions will be granted in British Columbia were relaxed slightly in a provincial government order today which applies a new principle adopted in Ottawa to B.C. pensioners.

It provides that a person applying for a pension must have spent 700 days out of the last three years within the province. He must have been a legal resident for 20 years.

The previous regulation specified that an applicant must have been in the province for 700 days out of the last two years.

The change, it was officially explained, will make it somewhat easier for applicants who leave the province on short visits to relatives.

AID GIVEN CHINA BY LOCAL GROUP

The committee for Medical Aid for China made another step in their work in alleviating suffering in the Orient when they shipped a large amount of medical supplies to the war-torn country by the Empress of Japan last Saturday.

A cheque for $70 donated by an anonymous friend at the last minute, made it possible to send additional supplies and increased the draft to $250 in Canadian money.

Different supplies sent included quinine, iodine, ether, chloroform, vaseline, boric acid, adhesive tape, absorbent cotton. This was all bought in Victoria. Cases of bandaging, clothing and blankets were also shipped.

The sum of $74.50 was contributed by Mrs. Lavina L. Bailey of this city. Mrs. Bailey collected this amount through an exhibition of rare Chinese porcelains she has in her possession.

65 Boys Return From 'Y' Camp

Last of Campers Return From Royal Thunderbird At Glinz Lake

The Y.M.C.A. summer camping sessions at Royal Thunderbird Camp, Glinz Lake, wound up yesterday when 65 juniors returned to town after a two-week stay.

The boys' camping session started on July 17 and, during that time to the present, over 175 members and non-members of the association have enjoyed living under canvas at Royal Thunderbird.

The boys have accomplished a good deal and learned numerous arts and crafts during their stay at Glinz Lake. Viv Shoemaker, boys' work secretary of the "Y," who also acted as director of the camp, said that this year had been one of the most successful ever held.

"We're looking forward to next year already," Shoemaker said.

During the camp periods the boys have been taught woodwork, wireless telegraphy, first aid, camp crafts, group games, swimming, life-saving, wood carving and Indian crafts.

A large Indian totem pole has been completed and erected in front of the camp headquarters, symbolizing the camp's name, and a local telephone system has been installed throughout the various buildings of the camp.

Tomorrow, a group of girls from Anglican churches in Victoria will take over Royal Thunderbird Camp for the next 10 days.

CHAMBER 'SLEUTHS' TRACE DOWN MAN

Commerce Officials Locate Heir to Scottish Estate in 10 Minutes

Officials of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce were today able to place their finger nail immediately on an individual whose exact whereabouts for more than 30 years was not definitely known.

He is Claude Belfrage, employed by the Canadian Industries Limited, James Island.

In this morning's mail the chamber received a letter from an Edinburgh, Scotland, law firm, which read in part: "As we act for trustees and executors of the late Andrew Williams Belfrage, civil engineer, Edinburgh, and in connection with the disposal of the income on trust funds we desire to get in touch with his heir-at-law, Claude Belfrage."

"Claude Belfrage's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Belfrage, lived for a time on a farm in North Edmonton and moved from there to the city of Edmonton. On the death of William Belfrage, his widow married a farmer, Alf Trounson, and the family lived during the period 1905-1910 on a farm near Edmonton."

"Mr. Trounson eventually sold his Edmonton holdings and came to live on Vancouver Island, Claude accompanying him. We understand Mr. Trounson purchased a small fruit farm near Victoria, probably in the Gordon Arms district, and that Claude Belfrage assisted his stepfather on this fruit farm. At the end of the war we understand that the family was still resident on this fruit farm, but that Claude Belfrage was married and may have begun farming on his own."

The chamber officials immediately set to work to locate Mrs. Trounson, and within 10 minutes had found her and received the information as to the whereabouts of her son, Claude Belfrage. A copy of the letter was forwarded to Claude Belfrage, as requested by the firm, along with the request that he contact the inquiring party direct

Rabbi Answers Jew Question

War Psychology Kept Alive By Making Jew an Enemy, Speaker Says

"What is my sin?" Dr. Henry Joseph Berkowitz, rabbi of Temple Beth Israel, Portland, asked members of the Rotary Club at luncheon in the Empress Hotel today. "What have my people done to suffer persecution?"

It was necessary to look back into history for the answer, he said. Every group of people had its saints and sinners. The Jewish race was no better in this respect than any other.

History had put into the Jewish people a kind of unhappiness, Dr. Berkowitz continued. Now when one Jew sinned, all Jews were evil. When one Jew was successful and prosperous, all Jews were "crooks."

It had been easy for countries to persecute his people because they were not able to defend themselves. They had no army. Countries were able to give as their reason for upheaval, the Jewish people within their boundaries. As a result the Jewish race had suffered 2,000 years of historic havoc.

"If any segment of the population of Germany devoted itself to patriotism, it was the Jews," Dr. Berkowitz said. During their years in Germany, Jews had contributed much as educators, statesmen and especially scientists. Yet they were being hounded from Germany.

"Hitler was keeping his war psychology alive in Germany by making the Jews in the country an enemy," he said.

First Germany then Italy set themselves up as anti-semitic powers. Then Japan, which has no Jews, announced an anti-semitic policy. These three totalitarian states had set themselves up against the democracies of the world.

Walter Luney presided, and immediate past president G. Hamilton Harman voiced thanks to the speaker for his address.

Frank Doherty introduced Edward S. Read as a new member of the club. A large number of visiting members were present.

City Hall Briefs

Thanks of Maurice Heiser for the city's prompt action in providing him with a letter tentatively offering him a site for the construction of airplanes here, is contained in a communication from Mr. Heiser received at the City Hall today. "I am proceeding to California for a few days for the purpose of holding a meeting with my associates. After that I expect to return and take necessary steps that will bring this matter to a successful conclusion," the communication said in part.

An explanation of the city's action in selling a lot at the corner of Discovery and Government Streets for $500 when the company's lot on another corner is assessed at $3,910, is asked by the Shawinigan Lumber Yards Limited in a letter addressed to the City Council. When the company inquired the price of the lot four years ago, it was informed the figure was $5,000, the letter states, and three years ago the price named was $3,750. Inquiries were made at those times, the writer states, with a view to the company acquiring the property.

"We still feel that some satisfactory explanation is due us as to why this property was sold at such a low price, and without first giving us an opportunity of purchasing it ourselves. It is a serious matter to our company when you consider that we are now closed off from future expansion. Our company had definite plans for extension of our factory, providing this lot was available," the letter concludes.

Thanks of the Loyal Order of Moose for the assistance given by the city to the local lodge during the recent convention here, is expressed in a letter from the secretary of the Northwest Moose Conference Committee, received at the City Hall today.

Mrs. M. Norris was given a permit for the construction of a $2,600 five-roomed home at 1350 Dallas Road, by the city building inspector's department late yesterday. A permit was also granted to Clark & Cordick for a $2,000 warehouse office at 2503 Douglas Street.

Harry A. Mills, president, has issued a general invitation to all company men in active or retired ranks to join in the picnic.

William Beecroft, 80, Ritz Hotel, suffered fractured ribs and other injuries which necessitated hospital treatment when he fell into a hole dug by city workers in the sidewalk on View Street yesterday. The injured man was attended by Dr. Thomas Miller at the Jubilee Hospital. A police report said Mr. Beecroft's cane slipped as he approached the hole, causing him to fall into it on top of two workmen.

The name of Rev. S. Robertson Orr was added to the roll of ministers in the bounds of Westminster Presbyterian by resolution of that body at Tuesday's meeting. This followed the action of the General Assembly in June when Mr. Orr was readmitted to the Presbyterian Church in Canada after consideration of an overture by the local presbytery. In moving that Mr. Orr's name be added to the roll, Rev. John McTurk expressed his pleasure at the assembly's action and his gratification that an agreement had been arrived at which was acceptable to the assembly and Mr. Orr.

Improved Garbage System Proposed

Crushing of Refuse Before Dumping Suggested to Keep Beaches Clean

Consideration was given in aldermanic circles today to a proposal for processing garbage prior to dumping the refuse at sea. The matter came up for a serious discussion following complaints over the condition of city beaches, despite the activities of gangs now employed collecting and disposing of garbage that floats ashore.

T. E. Lancaster, city sanitary inspector, laid suggestions for improvement of the situation before Alderman W. H. Davies today.

The sanitary inspector was of the opinion the use of crushers, which would destroy cans and bottles, would cause the accumulated refuse to sink. He contended the buoyancy of the bottles and tins, coupled with that of uncrushed fruit rind, created the nuisance so apparent during the summer season.

As a means of illustrating the merit of his proposal, he suggested the city segregate a test load of garbage, crush it on the garbage wharf by the ordinary street-roller and then load it on scows for dumping. If his crushing theory was demonstrated to be correct, the city could then proceed with construction of specialized steel rollers into which garbage would be fed. The rollers, operated by electric motor, would destroy the substance of the refuse and drop it into a bin, from which it could be carried on conveyors onto the garbage scow for tipping at sea. Such a method, the sanitary inspector declared, would be comparatively inexpensive, would eliminate the costly upkeep required by incinerators and would provide, he believed, a thoroughly economical and satisfactory form of garbage disposal.

Mayor Andrew McGavin today voiced approval of the test and suggested the city might well follow the proposal to determine whether or not the scheme was operative.

8 Acts Booked For Willows Fair

Eight acts direct from the Fanchon Marco circuit will be imported as a supplementary attraction for the Horse Show to be held at the Willows during Fair Week, September 9 to 16, inclusive, it was announced today by W. H. Mearns, secretary of the exhibition association.

The importation is probably the most ambitious that the B.C. Agricultural Association has made for many years. The acts have been playing with outstanding success in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland and other Pacific coast cities.

A number of the acts have been featured in motion pictures with Joe E. Brown, while another has come direct from the Ringling Brothers' Circus.

The main feature is a five-act animal entertainment comprising the following: Military drill by Shetland ponies; comedy mule; cart and two clowns; wire walking and high jumping dogs; "Act Beautiful," pony with decorated cart, 20 doves and a lady driver, and comedy bareback riding by dogs and ponies.

Other acts include Jack Joyce and company, one of the finest comedy acts in America that has performed with Ringling Brothers.

Douglas Wright and company comprise a lady and two men, presenting two separate and distinct acts. One is called "Charlie the Horse," a travesty and comedy act, and the other "Ferdinand the Bull," a timely and sure-fire comedy. Both these acts were featured in the recent Joe E. Brown picture.

This entertainment, together with the competitions provided in the horse show competitions, and the thrilling four and six-horse team driving contests, will provide the public with an outstanding attraction during Fair Week, Mr. Mearns states.

BAY CRICKETERS BEAT VICTORIA

Excellent Bowling by G. Baker Features 140 to 68 Victory

Although his team's batting was at its best, G. Baker's excellent bowling featured the win for Hudson's Bay cricketers over Victoria in Wednesday league play yesterday afternoon at the Beacon Hill Park pitch. When stumps were drawn they were 72 runs to the good.

Baker bowled eight men for the low score of 33 runs. G. Gardiner took the ninth batter out for the Bays.

The winners went to bat first with Jim Oakman and Frank Tyrell excelling themselves at the stumps. Tyrell collected 57 runs before he was run out and Oakman batted 34. Thirty-two of Tyrell's runs were boundary knocks.

The rest of the team collected 49 runs and they were out at 140.

Victoria then took up the bat willed end of the fixture, and had it not been for Baker's steady deliveries, might have had a chance at catching the 140 runs.

Moore, Brown and Agar were the three that got the farthest. Moore batted 14, Brown 13 and Agar collected 12 runs. Their team was retired with only 68 runs.

The game was the final in the Payne Cup series, although the result does not affect the standings. Five C's win the silverware for the season. Next week the Payne Cup winners will meet the Bays in the opener of the Berger Cup series.

Lupe Velez in Natural Role

In 'The Girl From Mexico,' Showing Today at Plaza

Romance, comedy and side-splitting mix-ups are woven together into a delightful film offering in "The Girl From Mexico," a new Lupe Velez mirth-quake which opens today at the Plaza Theatre.

When a New York advertising executive imports a Mexican singer for a big radio program, the fiery Latin damsel persuades his susceptible uncle to take her around and show her the sights. As a result, the girl yells herself hoarse at a ball game and fails miserably at her addition for the program.

Undaunted, she argues herself into a job at a Spanish night club, and also sets about breaking up the young advertising man's engagement to a selfish society girl. How she accomplishes this, and involves all the principals in a hilarious tangle, makes for the high-speed climax to the film.

The supporting cast includes a charming newcomer, Lindia Hayes, from the "Gateway to Hollywood" talent quest, as the society girl, along with such well-known players as Donald MacBride, Elizabeth Risdon and Ward Bond.

'Guilty Trail,' Columbia Fare

Cowboy Rhythm In Popular Favor, Says Bob Baker

"Cowboy rhythm is pure music," says Bob Baker. "Swing, jive, jazz and ragtime, all products of Tin-Pan-Alley, are not nearly so representative of the national music taste," Baker insists. "The majority of people like Hillbilly tunes far better than the red-hot jangles from Harlem or the weepy swingaroos from Broadway."

Baker, popular, hoarse-riding, bronco-bust'n vocalist, whose latest Universal picture, "Guilty Trail," comes to the Columbia Theatre today, points out that many of today's well-known cowboy songs had their origin during wild west days on the old frontier while most modern hotcha numbers are here this morning and gone tonight like the jitterbug craze.

Auto Racing Drama Coming

With fast-talking Pat O'Brien, Ann "Oomph" Girl" Sheridan, the exotic Gale Page, heart-breaker John Payne and comical Frank McHugh in the leading roles, "Indianapolis Speedway," spine tingling drama of automobile racing produced by the Warner Bros. Studio, opens tomorrow at the Dominion Theatre.

Hailed as one of the most exciting and romantic films ever brought to the screen, "Indianapolis Speedway" forcefully depicts all the lure of the great American sport of auto racing on world-famed tracks.

The story concerns the efforts of Pat O'Brien champion race driver to make John Payne, his younger brother, continue with college and not follow in his own footsteps.

Crazy Gang At Oak Bay

'Alf's Button Afloat,' Upstairs Comedy, Being Screened Here

So many film stars have, for screen purposes, gone "crazy" in recent times that filmgoers are apt to forget that the first purveyors of genuine crazy comedy were the celebrated Crazy Gang—Nervo and Knox, Flanagan and Allen, Naughton and Gold. The latest Crazy Gang comedy, "Alf's Button Afloat," at the Oak Bay Theatre is one of the most uproarious comedies that has ever been made. It is not to be wondered at that these Crazy Gang films are such a big success. From the moment these stars show their heads in the doors of the studio the whole place is in a merry uproar with Nervo and Knox ransacking dressing-rooms, Flanagan and Allen cutting tufts of hair from the heads of electricians and Naughton and Gold wholly disorganizing the production unit.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Firmness on outside markets and the bullish character of the government's report on western Canada's spring wheat prospects held wheat futures prices a little above previous levels throughout most of today's cautious session on Winnipeg grain exchange. Weakness crept in near the finish, however, and values closed 1/4 to 1/2 cent lower, with October at 52 1/2, November 53 1/2, December 53 1/2 and May 57 cents.

Commission houses, southern interests and exporters made moderate purchases although most of the steadiness was attributed to the presence of only light offerings. Export sales of Canadian wheat during the day were expected to reach 250,000 bushels.

Operations in cash wheat and coarse grains were uninteresting. Liverpool advanced 1/4 to 1/2, influenced by the Dominion government's unfavorable review of western Canada's new crop conditions and a pause in hedging by Argentine shippers. Buenos Aires held unchanged.

Estimated Argentine wheat shipments this week totaled 2,939,000 bushels compared with 3,231,000 the previous week and 1,029,000 bushels for the corresponding seven days in 1938.

Wheat clearances from Black Sea ports aggregated 408,000 bushels this week, 320,000 last week and 3,824,000 bushels last year. The current week's shipments included 256,000 bushels of Russian wheat.

Yesterday's country marketings reached 365,000 bushels against 334,000 bushels for the same day a year ago.

South American Tree Produces "Cannon Balls"

Like Australia, Brazil has a large number of trees which seem strange to people of our land. Among these is the cannon-ball tree, which grows in the Guianas, as well as in Brazil. Happily this tree does not produce real cannon balls, but it has ball-shaped fruit, and we may compare the fruit to old-fashioned cannon balls of a size once popular on the battlefield.

Men under a cannon-ball tree.

The flower and fruit of the cannon-ball tree grow thickly around the trunk. Well above them are the green leaves.

The fruit takes about 18 months to ripen. Young fruit forms before the old fruit is ready for picking.

The full-sized "cannon-ball" is from six to eight inches in diameter. It has a thin, but hard, woody shell. Inside is a juicy pulp which the Indian natives eat, or squeeze to make a drink.

If we may speak of cousins among trees, the Brazil-nut tree is a cousin of the cannon-ball tree. It is tall and beautiful, growing to heights of from 100 to 150 feet.

The Brazil-nut tree is common in the valley of the Orinoco River, also in the Amazon Valley. It has large bright-green leaves, often from two to three feet long and from six to nine inches wide. It produces cream-colored flowers. The flowers slowly turn into nut-filled pods. Rounded like the fruit of the cannon-ball tree, the pod is thick-shelled and heavy. Woe to any native, or traveler, who walks under a Brazil-nut tree and meets one of these balls on its way down to the ground!

It is about the size of a man's head, and could knock a person senseless, or possibly give him a death blow. Inside each pod are from 18 to 24 nuts. These are the "Brazil-nuts" so often eaten at holiday time. Of late, they have been growing popular in shelled-nut mixtures sold by stores all through the year.

Brazil nuts are the seeds of the tree. When buried in the proper soil, in a region with a climate fitted to them, they will grow into trees.

Brazil-nuts are oily, and millions of them are pressed for their oil. Watch-makers use the oil for the movement of watches. It also goes into the making of oil paints employed by artists.

In our land, Brazil-nut oil is rather costly, but in parts of South America it is cheap enough to use in oil lamps. It also is put into small oil stoves.

HOROSCOPE

FRIDAY, AUGUST 11, 1939
Mixed good and evil are discerned in the planetary influences for today, according to astrology. In the morning the mind may be confused and lethargic.

Although there should be ability to discern the best in human nature, women may be misjudged in their ambitions under this configuration. They will be happiest attending to their knitting until the signs change.

Industry should be fortunate today. Workers will be inclined to co-operate in important matters. Urgent orders will be received by many manufacturers. Farmers should benefit today, as the stars promise better prices for the future. Methods of distribution are to be improved and agriculture conducted on a scientific plan. Better returns are forecast for fruits and grains. Increased demand for food staples will mark the autumn.

Persons past middle age are fortunate under this configuration which seems to promise a return of respect for experience. Advice of elders will be sought by members of their families.

The evening is promising to men and women who find joy in simple recreations. Astrologers emphasize the importance of curtailing expensive amusements. Persons whose birthdate is to have the augury of a year of unusual events. For some men upheavals in business are pending. Children born on this day may be forceful in speech and determined in action. These subjects of Leo generally succeed at any cost, but they are usually honorable. Their ruler is the Sun.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have been married 12 years, but have had nothing but unhappiness and ill health because my husband is one of the men who can never be faithful. He admits that I have been a perfect wife and mother, that I am good-looking and attractive, but that doesn't keep him from running around with other women. He makes a good salary, but he spends so much on drinks and other women that we are desperately poor. We don't have proper food or clothes to keep us comfortable. The children don't even have enough milk and fruit. Now this is my problem: I already have two children and am expecting another in a month and I want the hospital to give it out for adoption. It will hurt me terribly to give up the baby, but I am desperate and it would be so much better for the child. I have made up my mind to leave my husband and I might be able to support the other two, but I couldn't do anything if I was hampered by a baby. My health is wrecked by the strain I live under and I know I will have another nervous breakdown if I cannot get peace somewhere. Are babies usually adopted by good people who want a child? What generally happens to them? Will I always regret it if I give the baby away?

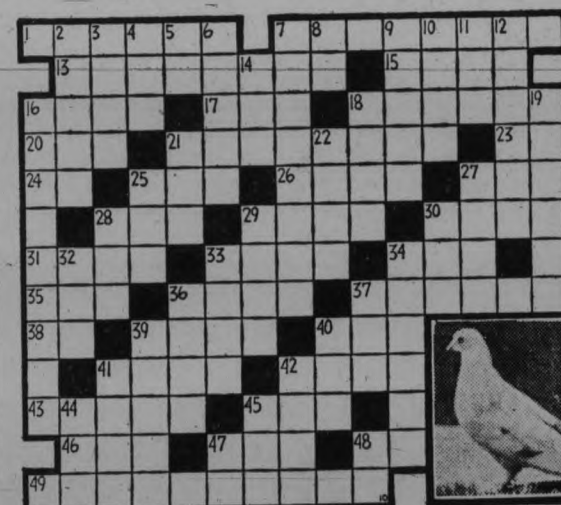

UNHAPPY WIFE.

Answer: I don't think you will give the baby away, because when the time comes you will not be willing to part with it. Hard as your lot is now, you would find it harder if, to all your other troubles, you added grief at parting with your little one and worry over what had become of it and whether any other woman's breast would be as soft to its little head as its own mother's.

But it is only illegitimate children who belong exclusively to the mothers. Your child was born in honorable wedlock and that gives the father a legal claim upon it. He would have to agree to giving the child for adoption. Perhaps if he realized that he had driven you to such a desperate state of being willing to part with your own flesh and blood rather than bring it up in the home he provides for his family it would give him a shock that would make him realize his responsibilities and do better.

DOROTHY DIX.

U.S. COASTGUARD GETS FALSE ALARMS

Series of Reports Alaska Trollers in Distress Investigated

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Coast guardsmen, who have sent their cutters racing over Alaskan seas to aid trollers reported in distress only to find no ship in need of assistance, are becoming suspicious.

The cutter Haida returned to port last night after investigating reports that a troller had been sighted flying distress signals off Cape Edgcombe last Monday afternoon.

Her officers said they saw many trollers, but none that needed aid. The guardsmen learned navy planes went out from Sitka soon after the distress report was received and could find no trace of the troller.

Guardsmen have been sent to sea four times recently to investigate such reports. Now efforts may be made to trace the origin of these reports to "find out what it is all about."

Searchlights from the steamers Princess Joan and Duchess of Richmond early this morning assisted in the rescue of G. R. Fraser, 27, of Lethbridge, who fell overboard shortly after midnight from the deck of Ss. Lady Alexandra in Vancouver Harbor. The Princess and the Duchess were following each other out of the harbor on their way to Victoria when their lights picked up the figure of a man struggling in the dark waters. They continued to play their lights while a lifeboat from the Lady Alexandra rescued the man, who was in the water 20 minutes. Fraser, with his wife, three-year-old daughter and his mother, Mrs. Irving Fraser of McLeod, Alberta, had been on a one-day cruise to Bowen Island. Fraser was recovering in Vancouver today from a bruised eye and exposure and expected to leave for home this evening.

'Duchess' Brings Cargo Of Luxury Tourists

Ss. Duchess of Richmond with her cargo of luxury cruise tourists berthed at the Outer Docks early today to give her passengers a day in Victoria. The vessel is leaving at 5 p.m. for San Francisco on her way to New York.

Not since the Empress of Canada called here on a world cruise many years ago has a tour party such as today's been in Victoria.

There were 500 passengers aboard the great flag-bedecked black and white liner, with her buff funnels, when she docked this morning at 7 from Vancouver.

After breakfast they started on sightseeing tours, which continued until an hour before the ship's departure for San Francisco at 5 this afternoon.

So far the Duchess, on her first visit to the Pacific, has called at Hawaii, Alaska ports and Vancouver. She is regularly in trans-Pacific service for the Canadian Pacific Steamships.

"Never a breath of bad weather—good fun and good sailing all the way," was the comment of bluff, hearty Capt. Harry Moore, skipper of the Duchess.

"We left Montreal July 1, but we sailed from England before that, and we won't get home until late in September—I haven't been away from home that long for many, many years."

HERE YEARS AGO

Capt. Moore, from the bridge of his lofty ship, this morning looked at the entrance to the Inner Harbor into which he sailed 29 years ago as second officer of the coastal liner Princess Adelaide, then arriving on her maiden voyage from England. He had not been here since that time.

Three passengers disembarked from the Duchess here and will travel on Vancouver Island. They were Frederick C. Adams, Miss Eleanor Beaton and Mrs. Frederick Cozzens, all of Evanston, Ill.

Miss Noreen Payne of Vancouver, grand-daughter of the late E. E. Blackwood, pioneer Victoria railway man, made the cruise from Montreal and visited her mother in Vancouver yesterday. Today she came to Victoria and rejoined the Duchess for the return voyage to Montreal.

"I could spend a year on this ship—it's the most wonderful trip," said Miss Payne.

There are four times as many women passengers as men and 100 of these—women are school teachers from the eastern United States.

GRADUATION PRIZE

Miss Eugenie Alter of Lausanne, Switzerland, told reporters this morning that she waited three years to make the trip, while Miss Adeline Ann Olsen said her cruise was a reward for graduating from the University of Wisconsin.

Doctors, students, lawyers and business and "just tourists" are among the happy, carefree passengers, who have enjoyed days of smooth ocean sailing and visits to storied ports of romance.

Tr. Dr. Frederick Leltz, Baltimore specialist, the trip is a vacation from many months of research and surgery, and he is spending it in the company of Dr. Howard Canning Taylor, Professor of Gynecology from New York, and Dr. A. J. Cohen, Philadelphia chest specialist. All declined to talk "shop."

Two of the youngest passengers on board are eight-year-old Joyce Herbert and her sister, Joanne, 12, of Fort Worth, Texas, traveling with their parents.

The 20,000 ton Duchess, built in Scotland 11 years ago, is much smaller than the Empress of Japan, but larger than the Empresses of Russia and Asia.

More than half the passengers will disembark at Acapulco, on Mexico's west coast and cross Mexico, rejoining the Duchess 10 days later at Vera Cruz, on the Atlantic coast of Mexico.

Because she was considered in the nature of a private yacht, very few Victorians were allowed aboard the Duchess today. Hundreds, however, saw her as she lay alongside the Rithet piers. Early risers watched her pass along the waterfront early this morning, and many hundreds were expected to glimpse her steaming out to sea late this afternoon.

B.C. Bound Ship Wrecked in East

Mr. and Mrs. Mooney of Vancouver and Crew Of Two Rescued

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—The rocks of nearby Lobster Reef claimed the 16-ton schooner Estey today, and ended a sea voyage that was to have been a "second honeymoon" for a middle-aged British Columbia couple.

The vessel drifted onto the rocks after a sea broke over the engine hold and shut off the schooner's motor about three miles out from Yarmouth. Four persons aboard gained safety just before the Estey crumpled into matchwood, by rowing ashore through the breakers in a cockle-shell of a dory.

On the schooner were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mooney of Vancouver, the vagabond cruisers, Jack Kanelokos, navigator and free-lance photographer, and Fred Horne of Canso, N.S., a fisherman.

Only three weeks ago the little vessel put into Prospect, along the south shore, out of Halifax, with her decks awash. The engine and pumps had failed in heavy seas after leaving Halifax and the crew just managed to get her into port before she sank.

The craft was raised and repaired and started out again on the voyage that was to take the Vancouver couple and their crew to the West Indies, South America and then to their home in Vancouver.

Fog-obscured seas were whipped into foam by a high wind when the Estey struck this morning. Kanelokos, Horne and Mooney cut away the rigging to prevent the Estey from capsizing before she drifted on the rocks. The jib broke and, without power, the steering gear was useless.

A dory was put over the side as soon as she struck and Kanelokos rowed Mrs. Mooney ashore. He made two more trips to get the rest of the party before the schooner broke up. The navigator said that it was almost impossible to row the boat in the breakers. He could just keep her head into the seas to prevent her from being swamped.

"It was a bad luck trip all the way," Kanelokos said. With the others, he lost all his belongings in the wreck.

Mysterious Vancouver Assailant Escapes After Attack in Bedroom

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver policeman and his wife were clubbed by a mysterious white-garbed assailant while they slept here early today, but both escaped serious injury.

Motorcycle Constable Jack Whelan and his wife were taken to a hospital and treated for head lacerations. Later they were allowed to return home.

Whelan is unable to offer any explanation for the attack. He told detectives that he and his wife were asleep when the man crept through the bedroom window and hit him over the right eye with a piece of wood.

Mrs. Whelan awoke and the thug struck her.

After the attack the assailant immediately scrambled out of the window and escaped across a light well on a plank. The policeman said the man appeared to be garbed in a suit of long underwear.

Detectives were mystified as to the motive for the attack as nothing was stolen from the apartment.

The window was open about three feet and the blind was pulled down level with the bottom of the sash.

Constable Whelan told interviewers that he and his wife retired about 1:30 a.m. The attack was made about two hours later.

AWAKENED BY BLOW

Whelan said he was awakened by a heavy blow over the right eye "and I heard my wife shout 'Jack, why did you hit me?'"

"We both heard a man scrambling out through the window."

Whelan said the heavy blow and the sudden commotion left him almost too stunned to move. Constable George Kitson later found a long piece of wood and splinters from one end of the club were found in Whelan's hair.

The man was also seen by the Whelan's nine-year-old son, Gary. The boy described the man as wearing long white pants and brown shoes.

Houde Says Liberals Will Be Returned

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor Camille Houde of Montreal assumed the role of political prophet today when he predicted the present government would be returned to power when it called a general federal election.

During the relief conference between a large Quebec delegation and the Dominion cabinet, he contended the relief problem had to be faced and by this government. The government had to deal with it either in the next session of the current Parliament or if there were an election.

"If there is an election, I suppose your party will stay," Mayor Houde told Prime Minister King.

Painful Piles

Can Be Quickly Relieved

If you think there is no way to relieve the misery of piles, it's because you don't know of HEM-ROID, an internal medicine from a prescription written by Dr. Leonhardt, a western physician.

The real cause of piles is on the inside—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel, with the tiny rectal veins full of stagnant, impure blood.

Dr. Leonhardt decided the way to relieve piles was internally, with a medicine which would ease the congestion of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and help to heal and restore the sore, tender spots. After many tests he wrote the prescription which has been so successful in giving quick relief from pile misery. It is now offered to you with our promise that you may have your money back if you are not completely satisfied after using one bottle.

No matter what kind of piles you have or how long you have had them, HEM-ROID must show you the quick, clean way to get rid of your pile misery or your money will be given back to you. U.S. COASTGUARD GETS FALSE ALARMS

Series of Reports Alaska Trollers in Distress Investigated

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Coastguardsmen, who have sent their cutters racing over Alaskan seas to aid trollers reported in distress only to find no trace of the troller.

The cutter Haida returned to port last night after investigating reports that a troller had been sighted flying distress signals off Cape Edgcombe last Monday afternoon.

Her officers said they saw many trollers, but none that needed aid. The guardsmen learned many planes went out from Sitka soon after the distress report was received and could find no trace of the troller.

Guardsmen have been sent to sea four times recently to investigate such reports. Now efforts may be made to trace the origin of these reports to "find out what it is all about."

John Robertson, stevedore foreman for R. P. Rithet and Company, found two tarantulas walking along the deck of Ms. Pacific Reliance at the Rithet piers yesterday.

They apparently fell from stems of bananas which were being unloaded from Panama.

With a stick and a can Mr. Robertson coaxed the deadly pair into a bottle which he took to his home, 128 Wildwood Avenue.

The yacht Yankee Clipper came into the Inner Harbor last night with 18 youths from the Y.M.C.A. camp at Orcas Island. This morning the craft shifted to the Rithet piers so the boys could have a look at Ss. Duchess of Richmond, tied up at an adjoining dock.

In the Inner Harbor, the smart yacht Sea Rest of Seattle dropped anchor.

FLEICHMANN YACHT

Paying her annual visit to Victoria, the great black-painted yacht Haida, with her steel superstructure, arrived in Cadboro Bay yesterday afternoon from California with her owners, Max Fleichmann, "the yeast king," his wife and three friends aboard. They are en route to Alaska.

Shortly after Haida dropped anchor the 210-foot yacht Sans Peur, owned by the Duke of Sutherland, passed Cadboro Bay on her way to Alaska from Victoria. Haida is longer than Sans Peur, but both are about the same tonnage.

Ships' Searchlights Aid in Rescue

Searchlights from the steamers Princess Joan and Duchess of Richmond early this morning assisted in the rescue of G. R. Fraser, 27, of Lethbridge, who fell overboard shortly after midnight from the deck of Ss. Lady Alexandra in Vancouver Harbor. The Princess and the Duchess were following each other out of the harbor on their way to Victoria when their lights picked up the figure of a man struggling in the dark waters. They continued to play their lights while a lifeboat from the Lady Alexandra rescued the man, who was in the water 20 minutes. Fraser, with his wife, three-year-old daughter and his mother, Mrs. Irving Fraser of McLeod, Alberta, had been on a one-day cruise to Bowen Island. Fraser was recovering in Vancouver today from a bruised eye and exposure and expected to leave for home this evening.

'Duchess' Brings Cargo Of Luxury Tourists

Ss. Duchess of Richmond with her cargo of luxury cruise tourists berthed at the Outer Docks early today to give her passengers a day in Victoria. The vessel is leaving at 5 p.m. for San Francisco on her way to New York.

Not since the Empress of Canada called here on a world cruise many years ago has a tour party such as today's been in Victoria.

There were 500 passengers aboard the great flag-bedecked black and white liner, with her buff funnels, when she docked this morning at 7 from Vancouver.

After breakfast they started on sightseeing tours, which continued until an hour before the ship's departure for San Francisco at 5 this afternoon.

So far the Duchess, on her first visit to the Pacific, has called at Hawaii, Alaska ports and Vancouver. She is regularly in trans-Pacific service for the Canadian Pacific Steamships.

"Never a breath of bad weather—good fun and good sailing all the way," was the comment of bluff, hearty Capt. Harry Moore, skipper of the Duchess.

"We left Montreal July 1, but we sailed from England before that, and we won't get home until late in September—I haven't been away from home that long for many, many years."

HERE YEARS AGO

Capt. Moore, from the bridge of his lofty ship, this morning looked at the entrance to the Inner Harbor into which he sailed 29 years ago as second officer of the coastal liner Princess Adelaide, then arriving on her maiden voyage from England. He had not been here since that time.

Three passengers disembarked from the Duchess here and will travel on Vancouver Island. They were Frederick C. Adams, Miss Eleanor Beaton and Mrs. Frederick Cozzens, all of Evanston, Ill.

Miss Noreen Payne of Vancouver, grand-daughter of the late E. E. Blackwood, pioneer Victoria railway man, made the cruise from Montreal and visited her mother in Vancouver yesterday. Today she came to Victoria and rejoined the Duchess for the return voyage to Montreal.

"I could spend a year on this ship—it's the most wonderful trip," said Miss Payne.

There are four times as many women passengers as men and 100 of these women are school teachers from the eastern United States.

GRADUATION PRIZE

Miss Eugenie Alter of Lausanne, Switzerland, told reporters this morning that she waited three years to make the trip, while Miss Adeline Ann Olsen said her cruise was a reward for graduating from the University of Wisconsin.

Doctors, students, lawyers and business and "just tourists" are among the happy, carefree passengers, who have enjoyed days of smooth ocean sailing and visits to storied ports of romance.

Tr. Dr. Frederick Leitz, Baltimore specialist, the trip is a vacation from many months of research and surgery, and he is spending it in the company of Dr. Howard Canning Taylor, Professor of Gynaecology from New York, and Dr. A. J. Cohen, Philadelphia chest specialist. All declined to talk "shop."

Two of the youngest passengers on board are eight-year-old Joyce Herbert and her sister, Joanne, 12, of Forth Worth, Texas, traveling with their parents.

The 20,000 ton Duchess, built in Scotland 11 years ago, is much smaller than the Empress of Japan, but larger than the Empresses of Russia and Asia.

More than half the passengers will disembark at Acapulco, on Mexico's west coast and cross Mexico, rejoining the Duchess 10 days later at Vera Cruz, on the Atlantic coast of Mexico.

Because she was considered in the nature of a private yacht, very few Victorians were allowed aboard the Duchess today. Hundreds, however, saw her as she lay alongside the Rithet piers. Early risers watched her pass along the waterfront early this morning, and many hundreds were expected to glimpse her steaming out to sea late this afternoon.

B.C. Bound Ship Wrecked in East

Mr. and Mrs. Mooney of Vancouver and Crew Of Two Rescued

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—The rocks of nearby Lobster Reef claimed the 16-ton schooner Estey today, and ended a sea voyage that was to have been a "second honeymoon" for a middle-aged British Columbia couple.

The vessel drifted onto the rocks after a sea broke over the engine hold and shut off the schooner's motor about three miles out from Yarmouth. Four persons aboard gained safety just before the Estey crumpled into matchwood, by rowing ashore through the breakers in a cockle-shell of a dory.

On the schooner were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mooney of Vancouver, the vagabond cruisers, Jack Kanelakos, navigator and free-lance photographer, and Fred Horne of Canso, N.S., a fisherman.

Only three weeks ago the little vessel put into Prospect, along the south shore, out of Halifax, with her decks awash. The engine and pumps had failed in heavy seas after leaving Halifax and the crew just managed to get her into port before she sank.

The craft was raised and repaired and started out again on the voyage that was to take the Vancouver couple and their crew to the West Indies, South America and then to their home in Vancouver.

Fog-obscured seas were whipped into foam by a high wind when the Estey struck this morning. Kanelakos, Horne and Mooney cut away the rigging to prevent the Estey from capsizing before she drifted on the rocks. The jib broke and, without power, the steering gear was useless.

A dory was put over the side as soon as she struck and Kanelakos rowed Mrs. Mooney ashore. He made two more trips to get the rest of the party before the schooner broke up. The navigator said that it was almost impossible to row the boat in the breakers. He could just keep her head into the seas to prevent her from being swamped.

"It was a bad luck trip all the way," Kanelakos said. With the others, he lost all his belongings in the wreck.

South American Tree Produces "Cannon Balls"

Like Australia, Brazil has a large number of trees which seem strange to people of our land. Among these is the cannon-ball tree, which grows in the Guianas, as well as in Brazil. Happily this tree does not produce real cannon balls, but it has ball-shaped fruit, and we may compare the fruit to old-fashioned cannon balls of a size once popular on the battlefield.

Men under a cannon-ball tree.

The flower and fruit of the cannon-ball tree grow thickly around the trunk. Well above them are the green leaves.

The fruit takes about 18 months to ripen. Young fruit forms before the old fruit is ready for picking.

The full-sized "cannon-ball" is from six to eight inches in diameter. It has a thin, but hard, woody shell. Inside is a juicy pulp which the Indian natives eat, or squeeze to make a drink.

If we may speak of cousins among trees, the Brazil-nut tree is a cousin of the cannon-ball tree. It is tall and beautiful, growing to heights of from 100 to 150 feet.

The Brazil-nut tree is common in the valley of the Orinoco River, also in the Amazon Valley. It has large bright-green leaves, often from two to three feet long and from six to nine inches wide. It produces cream-colored flowers.

The flowers slowly turn into nut-filled pods. Rounded like the fruit of the cannon-ball tree, the pod is thick-shelled and heavy. Woe to any native, or traveler, who walks under a Brazil-nut tree and meets one of these balls on its way down to the ground! It is about the size of a man's head, and could knock a person senseless, or possibly give him a death blow.

Inside each pod are from 18 to 24 nuts. These are the "Brazil-nuts" so often eaten at holiday time. Of late, they have been growing popular in shelled-nut mixtures sold by stores all through the year.

Brazil nuts are the seeds of the trees. When buried in the proper soil, in a region with a climate fitted to them, they will grow into trees.

Brazil-nuts are oily, and millions of them are pressed for their oil. Watch-makers use the oil for the movement of watches. It also goes into the making of oil paints employed by artists.

In our land, Brazil-nut oil is rather costly, but in parts of South America it is cheap enough to use in oil lamps. It also is put into small oil stoves.

HOROSCOPE

FRIDAY, AUGUST 11, 1939

Mixed good and evil are discerned in the planetary influences for today, according to astrology. In the morning the mind may be confused and lethargic.

Although there should be ability to discern the best in human nature, women may be misjudged in their ambitions under this configuration. They will be happiest attending to their knitting until the signs change.

Industry should be fortunate today. Workers will be inclined to co-operate in important matters. Urgent orders will be received by many manufacturers.

Farmers should benefit today, as the stars promise better prices for the future. Methods of distribution are to be improved and agriculture conducted on a scientific plan. Better returns are forecast for fruits and grains. Increased demand for food staples will mark the autumn.

Persons past middle age are fortunate under this configuration which seems to promise a return of respect for experience. Advice of elders will be sought by members of their families.

The evening is promising to men and women who find joy in simple recreations. Astrologers emphasize the importance of curtailing expensive amusements. Persons whose birthdate is to have the augury of a year of unusual events. For some men upheavals in business are pending.

Children born on this day may be forceful in speech and determined in action. These subjects of Leo generally succeed at any cost, but they are usually honorable. Their ruler is the Sun.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

ANSWER: Tennessee is bounded by Missouri, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, Virginia and Kentucky.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have been married 12 years, but have had nothing but unhappiness and ill health because my husband is one of the men who can never be faithful. He admits that I have been a perfect wife and mother, that I am good-looking and attractive, but that doesn't keep him from running around with other women. He makes a good salary, but he spends so much on drinks and other women that we are desperately poor. We don't have proper food or clothes to keep us comfortable. The children don't even have enough milk and fruit. Now this is my problem: I already have two children and am expecting another in a month and I want the hospital to give it out for adoption. It will hurt me terribly to give up the baby, but I am desperate and it would be so much better for the child. I have made up my mind to leave my husband and I might be able to support the other two, but I couldn't do anything if I was hampered by a baby. My health is wrecked by the strain I live under and I know I will have another nervous breakdown if I cannot get peace somewhere. Are babies usually adopted by good people who want a child? What generally happens to them? Will I always regret it if I give the baby away?

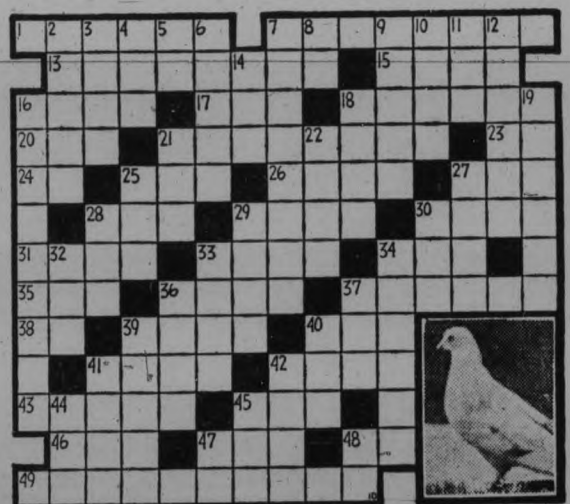

UNHAPPY WIFE.

Answer: I don't think you will give the baby away, because when the time comes you will not be willing to part with it. Hard as your lot is now, you would find it harder if, to all your other troubles, you added grief at parting with your little one and worry over what had become of it and whether any other woman's breast would be as soft to its little head as its own mother's.

But it is only illegitimate children who belong exclusively to the mothers. Your child was born in honorable wedlock and that gives the father a legal claim upon it. He would have to agree to giving the child for adoption. Perhaps if he realized that he had driven you to such a desperate state of being willing to part with your own flesh and blood rather than bring it up in the home he provides for his family it would give him a shock that would make him realize his responsibilities and do better.

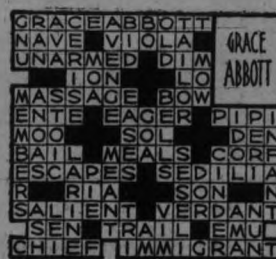

DOROTHY DIX.
